Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent, a new nation, conceived in Liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field, as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow—this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of Freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from this earth.

The Gettysburg Address
November 19, 1863
President Abraham Lincoln

The Anniversary of
The Signing of the Mayflower Compact
The Compact

IN THE NAME OF GOD, AMEN. We whose names are underwritten, the loyal subjects of our dread sovereign Lord, King James, by the grace of God, of Great Britain, France and Ireland King, Defender of the Faith, etc.

Having undertaken, for the glory of God, and advancement of the Christian faith and honor of our King and Country, a voyage to plant the first colony in the northern parts of Virginia, do by these presents, solemnly and mutually in the presence of God, and one of another, covenant and combine ourselves together into a civil body politic, for our better ordering and preservation and furtherance of the ends aforesaid; and by virtue hereof to enact, constitute and frame such just and equal laws, ordinances, acts, constitutions and offices, from time to time, as shall be thought most meet and convenient for the general good of the Colony: unto which we promise all due submission and obedience.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF we have hereunder subscribed our names at Cape Cod, the 11 of November, in the year of the reign of our sovereign Lord King James; of England, France and Ireland the eighteenth, and of Scotland the fifty-fourth. Ano. Dom. 1620.

Richard More and Henry Samson were young boys and did not sign the Compact. Both have descendants.

After a difficult voyage in November 1620, the Mayflower anchored at Cape Cod, north of the limits of the Virginia Colony, and beyond any organized law. Some form of government was necessary. Those who intended to settle here at Cape Cod comprised two separate groups: the religious dissenters from England and Holland, and those who hoped to better themselves in this new Colony. Differences of opinion had arisen between these groups on the voyage. These differences had to be reconciled if the colony was to survive.

Therefore, on November 21, 1620, in the "Great Cabin" aboard the Mayflower, forty-one male passengers composed a written document, which was a vow, a pledge, a word of honor that all who signed it, as well as their families promised to abide by its proclamation.

The settlers lived up to the Compact they signed. It brought the divergent groups into one unified group, and the Compact remained as the Constitution of the Colony until Plymouth was merged into the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1692 by order of King William and Queen Mary.

JACQUELINE HUMPHREY 3484 Saddle Brook Drive Melbourne Fl 32934

Gen. 8 - proving William Collins of N.Y. City was the same as William Collins, son of Oliver Collins of Springfield MA.

Birth : William Collins born 10 March 1798 Springfield MA, bapt. 18 March 1798 Springfield MA. Proves that his father was Oliver Collins. Son William was executor of father Oliver's estate in 1844. The 1844 probate papers of Hampdan Co. MA prove that son William COLLINS RESIDED IN NEW YORK CITY, NEW YORK COUNTY, NEW YORK STATE, ie: Manhattan.

By 1847 William Collins was employed in Manhattan, occupation ready-made linen, residence in Brooklyn N.Y. as found on City Directory.
1850 census, William Collins resided in B'klyn N.Y.; occup. Clockmaker.

Coroner's Inquest Certif. of death for William Collins, #1465 in Brooklyn N.Y., lists his death on the 7th March 1866, age 67 yrs, 11 months, 25 days. This agrees nicely with the time of birth of William Collins s/o Oliver, in Springfield MA.

William Collins married 1841 in Manhattan in St. Matthews Lutheran Church as 2nd husband to Jeanette F.L. von Vultee, widow of Capt. Oliver Mayo. This also places William Collins in Manhattan ca 1841.

An original photograph of William Collins 1798-1866 is now in my possession. This picture was taken in the 1860's shortly before his 1866 death, based on his appearance as an old man. This photo was held in the Collins family, the last owner being the widow Alyce (Tyson) Maris, 1891-1988. Alyce was the great grand daughter of William Collins 1798-1866. Alyce had no children.
Alyce was raised in Brooklyn N.Y. by her great Aunt LUCINDA CHAPMAN (Collins) Whitney, having been orphaned at age 7.

Alyce Maris' Vultee cousin Mary Ann (Prettyman) Willard was executor of Alyce Maris' estate in 1988. Mary Ann has no Collins ancestry. She found the photograph of William Collins in Alyce's effects.

Mrs. Willard is not a genealogy searcher. Another Vultee descendant found me and told me about Mary Ann Willard. I have never met her, so she has no incentive to give me false information. She kindly made a notarized statement regarding how she came to have possession of the old picture of William Collins.

The value of this old original photograph of William Collins is that the back of it states in handwriting that WILLIAM COLLINS WAS BORN IN SPRINGFIELD MA. It also gives the names of two of his great grand children.

Several census records in Brooklyn 1850-1865 list William Collins as BORN IN MA ca 1798/1799. He was husband of Jeannette, and had children Jeannette and William, as well as two step-sons with surname Mayo on 1850 census. William Collins third child LUCINDA Collins appeared on 1865 census, having been born after the 1850 census.

William Collins was murdered in Brooklyn in March 1866. He left three children according to Brooklyn Daily Eagle articles giving an account of the murder. His daughter Jeanette made a deposition and his son William gave a deposition at the inquest, both of whom were mentioned in the newspaper article. The third child LUCINDA was too young to give a deposition.

William Collins who died 1866 and wife Jeanette (von Vultee) (Mayo) Collins and son William T. Collins who died 1901 and a daughter LUCINDA A. Collins who died as a child, were all buried together in the Gertrude Vultee lot in Greenwood Cem. in B'klyn. Gertrude was the mother of Jeannette (von Vultee) (Mayo) Collins.

An unpublished Vultee history written before 1914, was in the effects of Alyce Tyson Maris when she died in 1988. Executor Mary Ann (Prettyman) Willard is now in possession of it. This history listed William Collins who married Jeanette von Vultee, as being FROM SPRINGFIELD MA.

Jeanette (von Vultee) (Mayo) Collins' death notice in 1879 in B'klyn Daily Eagle asks SPRINGFIELD MA newspapers to please copy. Her deceased husband William Collins still had a brother Henry residing in Springfield and other relatives there.

The Signing of the Mayflower Compact

[illegible]

Therefore, on November 21, 1620, in the "Great Cabin" aboard the Mayflower [illegible]

[illegible] into the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1692 by order of King William and Queen Mary.

Presented by the Society of Mayflower Descendants

LUCINDA Cooley married Oliver Collins as his second wife in Longmeadow/Springfield MA. She was the mother of William Collins born 10 March 1798 in Springfield MA. Oliver and LUCINDA Collins also had a daughter LUCINDA who married as second wife to Moses CHAPMAN in Springfield MA.

William Collins 1798-1866 named two daughters LUCINDA. The first was LUCINDA A. Collins who was born ca 1842/46 and died young. She was buried in Greenwood Cem. Bklyn with her parents. The second daughter named LUCINDA had the middle name Chapman. She married George Whitney who predeceased her and was buried in Boston MA. LUCINDA CHAPMAN (Collins) Whitney was buried with her sister Jeanette (Collins) (Blakely) Kretschmar in the Kretschmar plot in Greenwood Cem. in B'klyn.

It is obvious that the name LUCINDA was important to William Collins 1798-1866. His mother was LUCINDA (Cooley) Collins and his sister was LUCINDA Collins who married Moses CHAPMAN.

Gen. 9 - William T. Collins ca 1844-1901.

William's only wife Nellie Louisa Gaylor was sometimes known as Gaylord. She was usually called Louise. The family was known as Gaylor early in Montgomery Co. N.Y. and in 1850 census Albany N.Y. and in 1855 State census in Buffalo N.Y. The BEST PROOF OF HER BIRTH is in 1850 census when she was 3 yrs old and in 1855 census when she was 7 yrs old. This makes her birth ca 1847 or 1848.

Nellie "Louisa" Gaylor married three times. She became younger with each marriage. I take other records of her age as fibbing.

The unpublished Vultee hist., written about 1914, lists William Collins as son of William Collins and Jeannette Vultee; also that the son William married Nellie Gaylord, by whom he had two daughters, then separated from his wife. This all agrees with my own known family; daughter Nellie L. (Collins) Baker being my grandmother. William Collins' Civil War Pension application deposition also agrees with the Vultee history.

In the Bow/Gaylor plot in Greenwood Cem. Brooklyn, where Nellie L. (Gaylor/Gaylord) Collins' parents lie buried, as well as Nellie's 3 sisters, some of them are listed as Gaylord. See enclosed paper.

Gen. 10 - Nellie Louisa Collins 1866-1933.

Both Nellie and her husband Charles H. Baker were born too early for official birth certificates. Nellie's father, William T. Collins, 1844-1901, made a deposition for Civil War Pension application that gives daughter Nellie's birth in Dec. 1866. This is the date I am using for proof.

Nellie Jr. also apparently fibbed her age on marriage and death certif. and appears as a younger age in several records.

Jackie, you may be correct about the census, but I think the census taker might have gotten carried away. It sure looks like an 8 not a 3. I double checked to make sure it was an 8 and it was. But there wasn't enough time for her to have 8, I agree.

The Municipal Archives doesn't have the first three months of 1866 Brooklyn marriage records either. We do have certificate #s 1027-1562 however. The next time you visit New York City's website, look up the Dept. of Records & Information Services. From our homepage, you can find out how to download vital records request forms.

Re: Lot 1934 Section 67
Lot 15984 Section 164
Lot 31277 Section 196

Dear Ms. Humphrey:

Thank you for your check in the amount of $25 which was included with your letter of September 29, 1998. We have checked computerized, alphabetical burial records. The remains of William T. Collins who died January 23, 1901 were interred in Lot 1934 January 26, 1901. Also interred in Lot 1934, among others, are Jeannette F.L. Collins interred February 26, 1879, Lucinda A. Collins interred September 6, 1848, and William Collins interred March 11, 1866. Lot 1934 was purchased August 19, 1847 by William Menck who conveyed X one-half to Gertrude Vulter. Vulter The Executors of the Estate of said William Menck conveyed his interest to Robert Miller.

Lot 15984 was purchased July 3, 1865 by William H. Bow. The remains of a Philip Gaylor and Hiram Gaylor were interred in the lot July 8, 1865. The interment records do not indicate that these were a removal from Albany. The remains of Sally Gaylor were interred in the lot July 20, 1865. The remains of Margaret Gaylor/Gaylord do not rest in this lot or elsewhere in Green-Wood. We confirm that the remains of eleven persons rest in the lot.

The remains of John F. Mayo were interred in Lot 31277 on June 5, 1913. Lot 31277 was purchased November 14, 1902 by said John F. Mayo.

Should you wish to receive a burial transcript of the vital statistics for any person, there is a charge of $17 per name for that information. The information you would receive is as shown on the enclosed Schedule of Charges. We herewith return your $25 check.

Very truly yours,

Jane Cuccurullo

THE SENTENCE OF JAMES RILEY

JAMES RILEY, who was convited recently of manslaughter in the 3rd. degree for killing PATRICK FITZPATRICK, was sentenced by Judge MOORE in the Court of Sessions this morning to 3 years imprisonment in the Penitentiary, remarking that it was probably owing to his previous good character and his age that the verdict was not for a higher offence. He and his family burst into tears as he was removed from the court-room.

THE COLLINS DIVORSE SUIT

In the case of NELLIE L. COLLINS, against her husband, WILLIAM T., the retereo?

Wife Nellie Louisa Gaylor/Gaylord was born May 16/17 1847/8 Albany Co. N.Y., birth year taken from 1850 and 1855 census when she resided with her parents Hiram Gaylor (Philipl) and his wife Sarah A. Weaver. This is the truest date I have found for her birth. She fudged her age at all of her three marriages.

Brooklyn death certificate #21274. Nellie Louise Caldwell born in the City of Albany, Albany Co. N.Y.; d/o Hiram Gaylor and wife Sarah Weaver, who were both born U.S. She died Brooklyn, Kings Co. N.Y., Nov. 2, 1904 at 11:30 P.M., 46 yr, 5 mo, 17 days (incorrect birth year, but probably born May 16 or 17). Cause of death was Uraemic Coma due to chronic nephritis. She was a married, housewife, residing in a private house. She resided N.Y.C. for 35 yrs. Dr. Wm H. Bates, 137 Clinton St. Bklyn, attended her from June 29 to Nov 2. The undertaker was H. C. Pouch, 305 Adams St. She was buried Nov. 5, 1904 in Evergreen Cemetery, Whispering Grove Section.
Louise purchased the cemetery plot in 1898, while married to her third husband Charles Caldwell. (Refs: Death certif.; Evergrren cem. rec.; family agreement at purchase of Evergreen Cem. plot).

Obituary of Nellie Louise Caldwell in Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Nov 4 1904, p. 3. After a long illness, Nellie L. the wife of Charles P. Caldwell and granddaughter of General Henry Weaver, who was killed in the Revolutionary War, died Wednesday evening at her late residence, 33 Prospect Place. She was born at Albany, N.Y. and resided for a short time in Buffalo, but of late years had made Brooklyn her residence. She had been, for a number of years, a member of the First Reformed Church on Seventh Ave. where she took an active interest in the Women's Missionary Society, serving on the Committee for City Mission work. Her kindly face and her generous efforts in good works will be affectionately remembered by a host of friends outside of her own family, who will sincerely mourn her loss. Her two daughters, Mrs. John C. Davidson and Mrs. Nellie L. Baker, widow of the late Charles H. Baker, survive her and will ever remember her as a kind and loving mother.

(Nellie Louisa Gaylor must have actually been a great grand daughter of Henry Weaver who died in the Rev. War because her mother Sarah Weaver was born ca 1807 according to census records. Otherwise, it would have to mean that Henry Weaver died in the War of 1812)?

The parade is to start from the Twelfth District Club house at Seventh avenue and Ninth street, and the line of march will be down Sixth avenue to the Logan and Eleventh Assembly District clubs.

Ex-Judge Samuel D. Morris, a Democrat, will make two speeches on "D. Cady Herrick as a Political Judge." Mr. Morris has come out for Higgins and will attack Herrick, whose career he claims to know well.

Tickets for all these meetings are in great demand to-day, especially for the Rink, but they are to be open except for a comparatively few platform seats. There is a great desire to hear Odell, whose course in taking the platform to defend himself is admired by a good many Republicans. Last night in Manhattan he defined "Odellism" as he understands it.

Prominent speakers will talk at all the local meetings to-morrow night, beside Woodruff and Odell. The full schedule has not yet been made up. It has been found impossible, however, to get ex-Governor Black or Elihu Root.

Great interest is shown in the meetings held at the Navy Yard, that is to say, at the Sands and Cumberland streets gate. At noon, when the employes of the Navy Yard have their lunch, with other employes of the manufacturing concerns in the neighborhood, gather at either gate and listen to comments made by Republican orators. At no time during the campaign has such enthusiasm been shown as at the Navy Yard noonday meetings.

To-night, at the Rink, Clermont avenue, near Myrtle, the Republican Italians will hold a meeting, which promises to be a greater demonstration of Italian sentiment than Kings County has ever seen. Thomas Caciola will preside, and will be assisted by the following vice presidents: Alfred Cassanese, Charles Ravetta, Anselmo Cardillo, Vincenzo Angelora, James C. Danzilo, Antonio Jeffery, Gaetano Parisi, Frank G. Belzito, Thomas A. Maneuse, Raphael Denzia, Cav. Joseph Monaco, Cav. Nicola Grilli, Emilio Spina, Nicola Yuzzolino, Angelo Campetiello, Herbert Baldarini, Nicola Molinari, Louis Prudenti, Thomas O. Cuntia, Nicholas Zanoni, Samuel Cicone, Carmine Iemma. These orators are: Conte G. L. De Geraci, Professor Erminio Fiore, Dr. Geofrio Abruzzi, Sig. Arturo Zaunoni, Sig. A. O. Gallino. Fireworks, brass bands and general excitement will be seen at the Rink to-night.

At Republican headquarters to-day the greatest confidence was displayed. "I am more than surprised at the great enthusiasm shown at the twenty to twenty-five meetings in Kings County each night," said Colonel Lewis R. Stegeman, chairman of the speakers bureau. "Especially has the foreign element—that is to say, the Italian and German population, of Brooklyn—placed itself on record as being in sympathy with the Republican party. Particularly is this true in the old Twelfth and Sixth wards, where the Italian element is largely represented."

At the H. H. Garnet Club, 43 Rockwell place, President George E. Wibecan, Jr., can be found nightly. President Wibecan said to-day: "I have been in every Assembly district in Kings County in the past six weeks, and I never saw so many enthusiastic colored Republicans. I find that the words of ex-Congressman White, delivered at the Rink at one of the most largely attended colored Republican meetings in this country, voiced the sentiment of the colored Republican voters of Kings County when he said: 'Any man born of a colored woman who would vote the Democratic ticket is not only a coward, but a traitor.'"

To-night, in each Assembly district, each leader will make an especial effort to arouse popular sentiment. Cart-tail meetings will be a feature in the First Assembly District.

Other meetings this evening are as follows:

Twenty-first Assembly District, Metropolitan Saenger Hall, Hebrew Citizens, Pitkin avenue and Watkins street—E. Lauterbach, stereopticon views.

Nineteenth Assembly District, F. F. Williams Battery, Concordia Hall, Devoe and Olive streets—Felix G. Kernan, John J. McGinnis, Henry Weismann, P. W. Ostrander, Carl Falkenreck, H. J. Knapp, Frank Ehlers, Lester Williams.

Twentieth Assembly District, Cornelia Exchange, Evergreen avenue and Cornelia street—Felix G. Kernan, Thomas J. Surpluss, James Taylor, William Thomas, H. A. Hallenbeck.

Ninth Assembly District, Visitation Hall, Tremont street, between Van Brunt and Richards—George A. Hunter, J. M. Wall, Colonel Charles R. Banks, John J. McGinnis, A. Steward Walsh, Felix G. Kernan, R. Gordon Mackay, E. C. Brennan, George B. Parshall, Robert Haskell, George W. Harris.

Fourteenth Assembly Dist., Old Log Cabin Franklin Hall, 177 Franklin street—Samuel Morris, John J. McGinnis, Alfred H. Brown, H. B. Ketcham, Colonel Lewis R. Stegman, W. L. Ryerson, George B. King, H. J. Knapp, Edgar Hazelwood, William Shelton, James R. Howe presiding. (Inside and outside meeting).

Eleventh Assembly District, Washington avenue and Pacific street—R. H. Underhill, H. C. Underhill, Francis F. Giles, A. C. Cowan, H. C. Glore, William H. Calder, Frank Gardner, Charles H. Wight.

First Assembly Brooklyn Republican Club, 330 Fulton street—Andrew Jacobs, presiding, Robert H. Haskell, W. E. S. Fales, Thomas H. O'Neill.

Washington Hall, 825 Broadway, mass meeting of the deaf mutes—Colonel Lewis R. Stegman, G. A. Campbell, Thomas F. Ford.

OBITUARY.

Benjamin Van Ness Carver.

Benjamin Van Ness Carver, who died at his home, 561 Bainbridge street, Tuesday, of pneumonia, after a few weeks illness, was born in Medford, Mass., in 1857, and had lived in Brooklyn for twenty years. He was employed by the Municipal Electric Light Company as a mechanical engineer, and had belonged to Clinton Lodge, F. & A. M., DeLong Council, R. A., and to the Lee Avenue Congregational Church. He leaves a widow and four sons, a brother and a sister. The funeral services will be held at his late home to-night, and the interment will be had in the Cypress Hills Cemetery tomorrow.

John Webb.

John Webb, who died Wednesday at his home, 30 Hinsdale street, East New York, was a former well known resident of the Thirteenth Ward of Brooklyn, where he had lived on South Fifth street. His death was due to heart trouble and he was ill only a few days. He was prominent in fraternal circles and belonged to Park Lodge 516, F. and A. M. for thirty seven years. He also belonged to the Royal Society of Good Fellows, the Shepherd's Flock and the American Legion of Honor, before it disbanded. He was active in Republican political affairs in the Twenty-sixth Ward and was a member of the Twenty-first Assembly District Republican Club. He was born in London, England, February 1, sixty seven years ago, and for thirty years had made his home in Brooklyn. One son, Frank Charles, his widow, and three daughters, Mrs. Charles Atkinson, Emily and Jane, survive him. The funeral services which are to be held at the late residence Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Appleton, rector of St. Clement's P. E. Church, of which the deceased was a regular attendant. The burial will be in Cypress Hills Cemetery, according to the masonic ritual.

Charles C. Shelley.

Charles C. Shelley, for over twenty years prominent in Sunday school work in Brooklyn, and a member of the committee on hymns, and a director in the Sunday School Union, died of apoplexy yesterday at his home, 818 Carlton avenue, after an illness of a week. Mr. Shelley was born in Henry street, New York, in 1825, when that portion of Manhattan Island was in the suburbs of New York. He early entered the printing business and was foreman of the composing room of the New York Tribune, under Horace Greeley. From there he went into business for himself at 88 Barclay street, retiring about three years ago. He was at that time the oldest employing printer in New York City. He was a charter member of the New York Typothetae. He was a member of the Veteran Association of the Second Company of the Seventh Regiment, N. G. N. Y., and served with them during the Civil War.

Mr. Shelley was best known for his work in connection with the Sunday school. He was a member of the Tabernacle Church on Schermerhorn street, when Dr. Talmage was its pastor, and was an elder in the church. For twenty years and until its dissolution, he was the superintendent of the Sunday school connected with the Centennial Chapel Mission of the First Reformed Church on Seventh avenue. He later united with the Clinton Avenue Congregational Church, of which he was an elder at the time of his death.

Mr. Shelley had been married for fifty-two years to Miss Mary E. Brown. She survives him with three daughters, Mrs. Albert Cromwell, Mary E. and Mattie, and a son, Charles C. For forty years Mr. Shelley had lived in Brooklyn; twenty years in the Third Ward and twenty years in the Twentieth Ward. The funeral services will be held at his late home to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. Dr. McLeod officiating.

Nellie L. Caldwell.

After a long illness, Nellie L., the wife of Charles P. Caldwell, and granddaughter of General Henry Weager, who was killed in the Revolutionary War, died Wednesday evening at her late residence, 33 Prospect place. She was born in Albany, N. Y., and for a short time resided in Buffalo, but of late years had made Brooklyn her residence. She had been for a number of years a member of the First Reformed Church on Seventh avenue, where she took an active interest in the Woman's Missionary Society, serving on the committee for city mission work. Her kindly face and her generous efforts in good works will be affectionately remembered by a host of friends outside of her own family, who will sincerely mourn her loss. Her two daughters, Mrs. John C. Davidson and Mrs. Nellie L. Baker, widow of the late Charles H. Baker, survive her, and will ever remember her as a kind and loving mother.

TARRANT'S "EFFERVESCENT" CURE FOR Indigestion Sour Stomach

[illegible] would be proud to introduce.

This sentiment was applauded.

Mrs. Milton H. Northrup, of Syracuse, in behalf of the inspectors, asked for an amendment that would facilitate elections in the future, adding:

"Extending the time for voting yesterday from 5 until 10 P.M., necessitated the inspectors remaining on duty until after midnight. This is an infringement of the eight-hour law."

The trade school matter was disposed of on motion of Miss Rhodes, seconded by Mrs. Lyon, that the executive board appoint a committee to investigate all possible means of disposing of the funds now on hand resulting from the labors of the industrial school committee and the result of the investigation is to be reported to the council of presidents during the year and announced at the convention of 1905.

The rest of the session was devoted to the presentation of amendments to the constitution, one of which gave the officers and section chairmen the privilege of making motions.

Mrs. Lyon was the first officer to take advantage of the privilege, and moved to adopt the report of the committee on resolutions presented by Miss Elizabeth Perry of Brooklyn.

The convention concluded with the installation of the incoming officers, Mrs. Dow making the presentations.

Mrs. Carpenter was accorded an ovation, which she graciously acknowledged, adding:

"If I can during my term prove one-half as loving, tactful and gracious as your retiring president, I will have done all that you could expect."

When Mrs. Carpenter had taken her place Mrs. Lyon asked to be allowed the privilege of making the first motion under the new regime, which was that a message of love and sympathy be sent to the honorary president, Mrs. William Tod Helmuth.

The convention adjourned with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," Mrs. Lyon joining in as heartily as any of the victorious faction.

EXCITING VOTING SESSION.

Trade School Proposition Defeated by a Vote of 120 to 88—Mrs. Lyon's Disappointment.

(Special to the Eagle.)

Syracuse, November 4—"If I cross off Mrs. Carpenter's name does that mean that I am voting for Mrs. Lyon?"

"Can't we have some chairs? I'm tired of standing in line."

"Why did we ever try this new way of voting?"

These were but a few of the questions that were heard in the ballot room at the convention in this city of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs during the voting for officers yesterday. Of all the exciting presidential contests that have occurred in the ten years' existence of the federation this year's was in many respects the most engrossing, for the presidential contest and the trade school project were twin issues and both were fought to a finish.

"How in the world did we ever come to adopt such a system of voting?" asked a delegate who had been standing in line for an hour.

"The constitution was revised to correct the irregularities that prevailed at the election in Brooklyn two years ago," answered a Manhattanite.

"This may be more regular, but it's a heap more tedious," was the reply, "and as an object lesson it has yet to do it. It's a perfect success."

The convention as a whole indorsed the last sentiment later in the day. The new system required that voters should enter the ballot room one by one to deposit their votes and this caused such a delay that the time for closing the polls, originally set for 5 P.M., was extended to 10 P.M. in order that no delegate should be disfranchised.

Electioneering went on all day long, although the defeat of the trade school caused a little let-up in the energetic work of Mrs. Lyon's supporters.

A wave of sympathy, however, swept over the convention and turned a few wavering votes in her direction when Mrs. Lyon, during the count of the trade school vote, although she knew her pet project was defeated, went to the piano and sang "Ave Maria," accompanying herself. Previously she had played the accompaniment for the assemblage to sing "We Won't Go Home Until Morning," a rather apt selection, as it was then nearly 2 o'clock and the morning session was not yet concluded.

In her final plea for the support of the trade school project Mrs. Lyon said yesterday:

"I told Judge Herrick last evening at the hotel that I might go up to Albany this winter with a bill for him to sign, and he said he would willingly sign it if it were in his power. Of course we'll know after [illegible] his power next week."

The vote of 120 to 88 against the trade school was a crushing blow for Mrs. Lyon, who has [illegible]

N. B.—A certificate of death is a document of great importance. More than [illegible] copies of such certificates are issued annually from this office for use here and abroad as legal proof of death. It is essential, therefore, that the particulars called for shall be given correctly, legibly, and as fully as possible.

TO PHYSICIANS.

1. The attending physician must furnish a certificate to the Department of Health within 36 hours after death, and where death has resulted from infectious or contagious disease a certificate must be furnished by him forthwith (Sanitary Code, Sections 135 and 161).

2. All physicians practicing in The City of New York (including those in public institutions) must be registered in the Bureau of Records (Sanitary Code, Section 160).

3. If a person dies from criminal violence or by a casualty, or suddenly while in apparent health, or when unattended by a physician or in prison, or in any suspicious or unusual manner, the case must be referred to the Coroners' office (Chapter 410, Section 1773, Laws of 1882).

4. Certificates will be returned for additional information which give any of the following diseases, without explanation, as the sole cause of death:

Abortion,
Cellulitis,
Childbirth,
Convulsions,
Hæmorrhage,
Gangrene,
Gastritis,
Erysipelas,
Meningitis,
Metritis,
Miscarriage,
Necrosis,
Peritonitis,
Phlebitis,
Pyæmia,
Septicæmia,
Tetanus.

(Any one of these may be the result of an injury, and thus be a subject for investigation by a Coroner. If it is not, the certificate should make that fact plain.)

5. No certificate giving "Heart failure," "Dropsy," or other mere symptom as the sole cause of death will be accepted, unless accompanied by a satisfactory written explanation.

TO UNDERTAKERS.

1. No burial permit can be obtained without a proper certificate.

2. Certificates must be written throughout in black ink.

3. No certificate will be accepted which is mutilated, illegible, inaccurate, or any portion of which has been erased, interlined, corrected or altered, as all such changes impair its value as a public record.

recognized as leaders in designing novel and artistic settings for stones.

Important news to the diamond trade and to the lovers of these gems generally is found in the statement in the government report that extensive developments have taken place in the last year in the Transvaal diamond fields. Many new mines have been located and something like 100 prospective shafts have been sunk to varying depths to test the nature and extent of the deposits. The diamonds found resemble in general those of the famous Kimberley mines, the red clay being very rich in gems. Thus far the output has compared not unfavorably with the De Beers property, superior to it in yield per load, but inferior in size and quality of stones obtained.

One of the best mines in the new field, the Premier, was opened in May of last year and from June to October the monthly output advanced from 14,619 carats to 22,549 carats, the number of carats per load varying from 1.03 to 1.47. Of late years the average per load for the Kimberley mines has been only 0.76 carat. There are estimated to be 20,000,000 loads in sight in the Premier mine, and this fact for a time caused some serious speculation as to whether this new source might not have some effect on the world's price of diamonds. But it appears that the powerful diamond trust, which controls the De Beers and Kimberley mines, is in a position to practically wipe out the new venture in the Transvaal, if it is so disposed. The Kimberley diamonds are worth $11.62 per carat, while the new Premier stones only bring about $6.75. The Kimberley company can reduce the price of its product several dollars per carat and thus kill off its rival if the latter becomes dangerous. It is thought that this will be done if the development in the new field continues at the rate of the last few months. At the present time the Premier mine yields about four-fifths or more of the entire diamond product of the Transvaal.

At no former period were watch jewels made so perfect as to mechanical accuracy as at the present time. In the last fifteen years there has been a very marked improvement in watches, the number of stones required for the works has been increased by nine, and as millions of watches are made annually the number of jewels annually sold is between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000. This fact has had a great influence on the gem industry. The little stones are pierced to receive the gearing of the axles of the wheels. The object of using them is to give the works a base which shall cause the least friction and shall not wear out easily.

Among the jewels employed for this purpose the garnet is the least valuable, but it is much used in the cheaper watches. Sapphires and rubies, fine enough in quality to make gems, are mostly used but only minute pieces are necessary. For the most part, however, these gems are merely fragments of larger ones which have no color or else are rolled crystals that are of such color as to have no value and hence are not considered as jewels. This is especially true of sapphires too pale for setting which, however, are a shade harder and hence more serviceable for watch stones. Many thousand ounces of these American gems are sold at from $1 to $5 per ounce and are an important factor in American sapphire mining. In Switzerland most of the gems are cut and sold in boxes of from 500 to 1,000 per box. Each stone has been given a rounded form and is pierced in the center. Sapphires, rubies and even diamonds are used with wonderful ingenuity and with the increasing demand for hard bearings in the endless variety of electrical devices in which the moving points revolve rapidly, there is much to be looked for in the way of new devices and a greatly increased demand for watch jewels is probable.

The report gives the following bit of information by which lovers of jade may tell the real antique article from the imitation: "Objects in jade of Chinese manufacture are rarely inscribed with a date outside of the imperial workshops in the palace in Pekin, so that the inscription of a 'mark' under the foot of a piece may generally be taken to indicate that it was especially made for the use of the Emperor whose reign is indicated."

Only $50 worth of diamonds were mined in this country last year and they were discovered only accidentally in other mining operations. The production of turquoise is the most valuable of all the output of precious stones in the United States, $110,000 worth of them being mined last year. Sapphires next come in point of value, $100,000 worth of them being dug up last year. Then come tourmalines, worth $45,000, quartz crystal with $13,000 and the balance scattered.

Chairman Cowherd Closes Up Shop.

The Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee has completed its work and has practically closed up. Chairman Cowherd left for his home in Kansas City the other day, where he has a mean fight on his hands for re-election. He left word that he would return to ~~Washington~~ on Tuesday morning, and that he will be at the committee headquarters to receive the election returns.

The Democratic Congressional Committee has had rather an unhappy time of it this year. Despite the statements of the officers connected with the headquarters here, it is known that the committee was sadly neglected by the national committee, and that it got little or no help from Chairman Taggart and the others running the bigger game in New York. It is doubtful if Chairman Cowherd was able to give financial assistance to half a dozen Democratic candidates for Congress in close districts. He

New Yorkers listened to Cowherd's stories, but failed to produce any money. Then Cowherd wanted to remove the congressional committee headquarters to New York, where he could be nearer the barrel. But he was discouraged in this movement, and told to stay in Washington. Chairman Cowherd started out early in the campaign with the intention of organizing a speakers bureau, and he made some engagements for certain well-known Democratic congressional orators. Lack of funds prevented him from carrying on this scheme, and he was forced to cancel some of the engagements of his speakers. The impoverished condition of the committee could be seen by any one taking the trouble to drop into the headquarters. The entire staff, including the chairman and secretary, numbered about ten people, more than half of whom were women clerks. Funds were so scarce that the committee was unable to pay for the printing of a list of candidates in the different districts. If the Democrats elect a majority of the next House it will be more a matter of good luck than by large expenditure.

Post Office Morgue Abolished.

What has been known for years as the Post Office Department "morgue" has been abolished. Ever since the establishment of this branch of the government it has been the custom to keep the portraits of deceased postmasters general together in one room, called the morgue. At the new Post Office Department Building the morgue has been the room occupied by the private secretary to the chief executive officer. Around the walls of this room there are hung more or less authentic portraits of all heads of the postal service since the time of the first Postmaster General, in George Washington's Cabinet, William Osgood, of Massachusetts. The last picture to be hung on the wall was that of former Postmaster General Bissell, who died a couple of years ago. Prior to his death Bissell's portrait hung in the anteroom, just east of the office of the private secretary.

The custom of having large oil paintings made of present-day officials has led to the abolishment of the morgue. Lack of wall space for paintings four and five feet square led to the adoption of a new scheme for disposing of the portraits. All the oil portraits have been gathered together in the room of the Postmaster General, which will hereafter be the chief art gallery of the department. The portraits now hanging there are of Bissell, Gary, Cameron, Wanamaker, Wilson and King. A splendid oil portrait of Payne was recently completed for the government and is now on exhibition in St. Louis, where it forms a part of the postal exhibit. After the exposition is closed it will be brought back to Washington and placed among the other portraits.

Commercial Depression in Russia.

Grim war is having a depressing effect on industrial Russia. Consul Slocum, in Warsaw, reports to the State Department that comparatively few travelers for commercial purposes are visiting the empire. He says: "Word comes from travelers of experience that credits in general, not only in Russia proper, but in the south of Russia, have been disappointing, and this, in conjunction with the hesitancy natural to the condition of war and the uncertainty of the immediate future, have made the sound buyers more conservative and very careful in increasing their liabilities. Industrial cities, such as Lodz, with its numerous cotton and woolen mills, are particularly affected by the present depression. The number of unemployed in Lodz is variously estimated at from 10,000 to 15,000, and several failures among the smaller manufacturers have been reported. On the other hand, the larger mills have been able to continue, with a reduction of hours from eleven to nine, and in some cases with a five-day week. Notwithstanding such gloomy conditions, I anticipate that when the present Russo-Japanese controversy reaches its end Russia in general and Russian Poland in particular, will participate in a business revival such as has not existed in a number of years. This prospect should not be lost sight of by the American manufacturer." A. B. A.

ANOTHER CAR FOR ST. LOUIS.

Applications for Space for Brooklyn Day Trip to St. Louis Coming In Rapidly.

There have been so many applications for space on the special train to the St. Louis Exposition for Brooklyn Day that the transportation committee, after consultation with Colin Studds, assistant Eastern passenger agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, has decided to add one more compartment car, making five compartment sleeping cars in all on the train. This added car will be of the same quality and construction as the rest of the train, or in other words, the best the Pullman Company can furnish. As already noted in this paper, the special train will leave New York on Saturday, November 12, reach St. Louis November 13, remain in the World's Fair city until Thursday night, and then return to this city via the Big Four and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, stopping over for a part of Saturday at the Virginia Hot Springs and for a few hours on Sunday in Washington, long enough for an automobile ride around the city.

The itinerary provided by the committee

GOSSIP OF THE THEATERS.

There is much rivalry between "The Tenderfoot" and "The Maid and Mummy" companies, the former playing at the Montauk and the latter at the Broadway in the Eastern District, as to which show will take the most money from Brooklyn at the end of the week. These attractions are controlled by one firm, of which Richard Carle, the star of "The Tenderfoot" and author of both, is a member. Mr. Carle has become a prolific and successful author of light musical plays, and it is not generally known that "The Maid and Mummy" is his first attempt at playwriting. This was written eleven years ago, but it did not see the light of day until later effusions caused a demand for his work and then was resurrected from an old trunk.

Ethel Lloyd, the Brooklyn girl who graduated from the Amaranth and Sothern amateur dramatic societies, had a chance at the Broadway Theater yesterday afternoon to show the progress she has made in her profession since she went on the professional stage. Miss Lloyd is the understudy for Miss Rowland, who plays the principal woman's part and at yesterday's matinee she appeared in this role with much success. The house was crowded with her friends. Owing to her success Miss Lloyd has been signed for important roles in Carle's forthcoming productions.

Commencing November 13, a series of Sunday evening concerts will be inaugurated at the Folly Theater. The programmes offered, from time to time, will be made up from the best acts in vaudeville. Popular prices will prevail.

"Oh, he is just too handsome for anything," remarked Adele Ritchie to Jefferson De Angelis, speaking of a tenor who had put in an application to join the Fantana Company. "He evidently thinks so; he hasn't done anything for years," replied Mr. De Angelis.

Here is one which DeWolf Hopper tells about his little niece: The little girl's mother had just come from a trip along Lake Superior, and was telling her offspring how ill she had been. "What day was it?" asked little Eileen. "I don't know, dear," replied the mother, "when people are seasick they never know what day it is." A few days later Eileen's father took a trip out of town. While he was away he sent a postal home, which happened to bear the wrong date. Eileen's little brother noticed the mistake of date. "Why, mamma, papa didn't know what day it was," declared the youngster. "Mamma, maybe papa was seasick," was the conclusion of little Eileen, and now when Mr. Hopper writes home he is very careful to make sure of the date.

Mr. Conreid, who has for a long time shown himself ready at all times to aid the study of German in schools of this country, has now come forward to further the study of music. He has decided that the three most promising students of music in Columbia, the New York University, Barnard, Normal College and the Packer School, Brooklyn, shall be admitted free each year to the Metropolitan Opera House. Each institution will at the end of the academic year report to Mr. Conreid the names of its three best pupils, and they will have "the run" of the Opera House throughout the following season.

At a meeting of school teachers and principals of Manhattan, Brooklyn and Newark schools, arrangements were concluded with Mr. Conreid for a series of four special classical German performances at the Irving Place Theater, to which pupils of the local schools will be admitted at nominal prices. These performances, which will be given for educational purposes, will take place on December 3, January 14, March 4 and May 3. The works selected for interpretation by Mr. Conreid's company are in the order named: "William Tell," "Minna von Barnhelm," "Maria Stuart" and "Die Jungfrau von Orleans."

There is hardly a musical comedy produced that the manager and press agent do not try to invent a new, catchy term to apply to it and identify it by. It seems that the "Royal Chef" has an appellation which is entirely new and quite in keeping with the title. J. J. Shubert, who is directing its tour through the West, calls it a "musical menu," and the fact that there are twenty-two musical numbers scattered through the play seems to justify the term given it.

While a newspaper man was visiting Wilton Lackaye in his dressing room in Chicago the other night a note was brought in. It was written in French, asked for a loan of $2, and was signed by an English actor who has been "resting" in this country for the last four years.

Lackaye dug down deep in his jeans and the newspaper man said: "You are surely not going to give up."

Lackaye answered: "Certainly I am. You don't suppose I would let that Englishman go all over town and tell people that I can't read French?"

The mammoth organization of "Humpty Dumpty," rehearsing in sections in five theaters during the past six weeks, was brought together at the New Amsterdam Theater yesterday morning for [illegible] rehearsals,

To Brush Off the Eyeball.

A strong man with a cinder in his eye is as helpless as a babe. A tiny speck no bigger than a pin's head puts him most completely out of business, as it were. He cannot remove the source of his agony himself, and there are only a few persons possessed of a hand steady enough to permit themselves to work around such a sensitive organ as the eye. Yet for one having a steady hand and a little skill the removal of the tiny tormentor is a simple matter. The old fashioned way of doing this was to insert a flaxseed or the hardened eye of a crab into the eye, and in its passage around the ball it carried with it the offending object. Chil-

IMPORTATION OF JEWELS REACHES RECORD FIGURE.

Value of Gems Coming to This Country Last Year Was $26,000,000.

NEWS OF DIAMOND INDUSTRY.

Democratic Congressional Committee Closes Work—Commercial Depression in Russia.

Eagle Bureau,
608 Fourteenth Street.

Washington, November 3—The wearing of precious stones by men and women in the United States is more general to-day than at any other time in the history of the country. This is indicated by the fact that the value of the importations of gems of all kinds last year was far greater than that of the preceding years and twice as valuable as the importations of four years ago. This information is found in a report on the production of precious stones for the last year, just issued by the Geological Survey.

Twenty-six million dollars worth of diamonds, rubies and other gems were imported into this country last year. In 1902 the importations were $24,750,000, but in 1900 they were valued at less than $13,500,000. Prosperity for the rich has served to increase 100 per cent. the value of the purchases of precious stones from abroad in the short period of four years. Unset diamonds constitute the bulk of the importations of precious stones, aggregating more than $13,000,000 last year. Rough or uncut diamonds to the value of $10,275,000 were imported, the balance of the imports being made up of small lots of other gems of a less costly character.

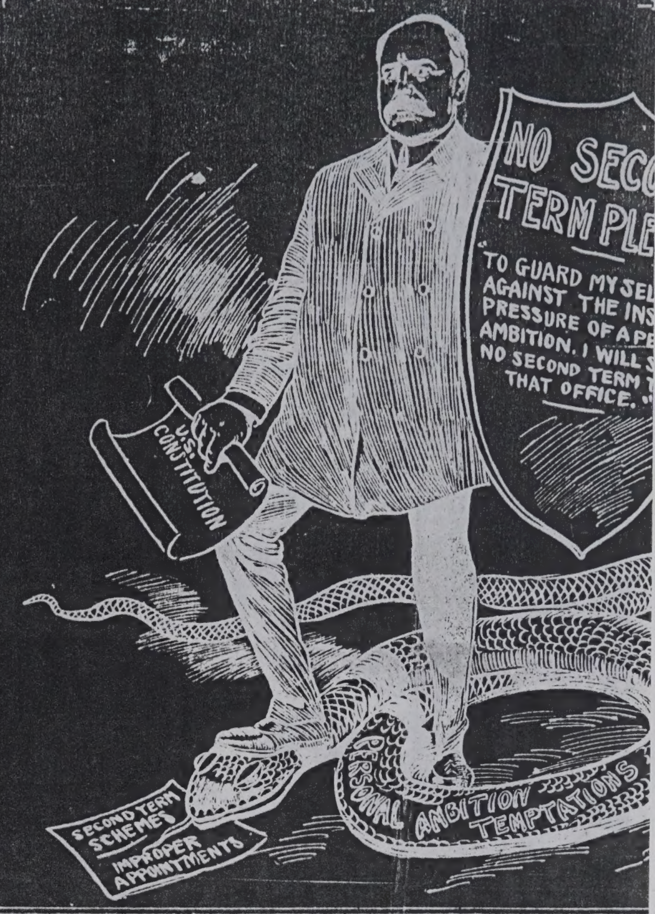
The quantity of uncut and unset diamonds imported is steadily increasing. Formerly these gems were brought into the country in settings, ready to wear. But the diamond cutting industry has advanced so wonderfully in recent years that our native artisans are now considered the equal of the best cutters of Amsterdam and other European countries. American jewelers are also recognized as leaders in designing novel and artistic settings for stones.

Important news to the diamond trade and to the lovers of these gems generally is found in the statement in the government report that extensive developments have taken place in the last year in the Transvaal diamond fields. Many new mines have been located and something like 100 prospective shafts have been sunk to varying depths to test the nature and extent of the deposits. The diamonds found resemble in general those of the famous Kimberley mines, the red clay being very rich in gems. Thus far the output has compared not unfavorably with the De Beers property, superior to it in yield per load, but inferior in size and quality of stones obtained.

One of the best mines in the new field, the Premier, was opened in May of last year and from June to October the monthly output advanced from 14,619 carats to 22,549 carats, the number of carats per load varying from 1.03 to 1.47. Of late years the average per load for the Kimberley mines has been only 0.76 carat. There are estimated to be 20,000,000 loads in sight in the Premier mine, and this fact for a time caused some serious speculation as to whether this new source might not have some effect on the world's price of diamonds. But it appears that the powerful diamond trust, which controls the De Beers and Kimberley mines, is in a position to practically wipe out the new venture in the Transvaal, if it is so disposed. The Kimberley diamonds are worth $11.63 per carat, while the new Premier stones only bring about $6.75. The Kimberley company can reduce the price of its product several dollars per carat and thus kill off its rival if the latter becomes dangerous. It is thought that this will be done if the development in the new field continues at the rate of the last few months. At the present time the Premier mine yields about four-fifths or more of the entire diamond product of the Transvaal.

At no former period were watch jewels made so perfect as to mechanical accuracy as at the present time. In the last fifteen years there has been a very marked improvement in watches, the number of stones required for the works has been increased by nine, and as millions of watches are made annually the number of jewels annually sold

"TO THIS I STAND PLEDGED"



New Yorkers listened to Cowherd's stories, but failed to produce any money. Then Cowherd wanted to remove the congressional committee headquarters to New York, where he could be nearer the barrel. But he was discouraged in this movement, and told to stay in Washington. Chairman Cowherd started out early in the campaign with the intention of organizing a speakers bureau, and he made some engagements for certain well-known Democratic congressional orators. Lack of funds prevented him from carrying on this scheme, and he was forced to cancel some of the engagements of his speakers. The impoverished condition of the committee could be seen by any one taking the trouble to drop into the headquarters. The entire staff, including the chairman and secretary, numbered about ten people, more than half of whom were women clerks. Funds were so scarce that the committee was unable to pay for the printing of a list of candidates in the different districts. If the Democrats elect a majority of the next House it will be more a matter of good luck than by large expenditure.

Post Office Morgue Abolished.

What has been known for years as the Post Office Department "morgue" has been abolished. Ever since the establishment of this branch of the government it has been the custom to keep the portraits of deceased postmasters general together in one room, called the morgue. At the new Post Office Department Building the morgue has been the room occupied by the private secretary to the chief executive officer. Around the walls of this room there are hung more or less authentic portraits of all heads of the postal service since the time of the first Postmaster General, in George Washington's Cabinet, William Osgood, of Massachusetts. The last picture to be hung on the wall was that of former Postmaster General Bissell, who died a couple of years ago. Prior to his death Bissell's portrait hung in the anteroom, just east of the office of the private secretary.

The custom of having large oil paintings made of present-day officials has led to the abolishment of the morgue. Lack of wall

GOSSIP OF THE THEATERS.

There is much rivalry between "The Tenderfoot" and "The Maid and Mummy" companies, the former playing at the Montauk and the latter at the Broadway in the Eastern District, as to which show will take the most money from Brooklyn at the end of the week. These attractions are controlled by one firm, of which Richard Carle, the star of "The Tenderfoot" and author of both, is a member. Mr. Carle has become a prolific and successful author of light musical plays, and it is not generally known that "The Maid and Mummy" is his first attempt at playwriting. This was written eleven years ago, but it did not see the light of day until later effusions caused a demand for his work and then was resurrected from an old trunk.

Ethel Lloyd, the Brooklyn girl who graduated from the Amaranth and Sothern amateur dramatic societies, had a chance at the Broadway Theater yesterday afternoon to show the progress she has made in her profession since she went on the professional stage. Miss Lloyd is the understudy for Miss Rowland, who plays the principal woman's part and at yesterday's matinee she appeared in this role with much success. The house was crowded with her friends. Owing to her success Miss Lloyd has been signed for important roles in Carle's forthcoming productions.

Commencing November 13, a series of Sunday evening concerts will be inaugurated at the Folly Theater. The programmes offered, from time to time, will be made up from the best acts in vaudeville. Popular prices will prevail.

"Oh, he is just too handsome for anything," remarked Adele Ritchie to Jefferson De Angelis, speaking of a tenor who had put in an application to join the Fantana Company. "He evidently thinks so; he hasn't done anything for years," replied Mr.

DEMAND FOR SMALL BILLS GREATER THAN SUPPLY.

Famine in the Treasury of One and Two Dollar Certificates.

ONLY 893,000 SILVER DOLLARS.

Government Departments Are Doing Nothing and Clerks Idle Away Time for Which Country Pays.

Eagle Bureau,
608 Fourteenth Street.

Washington, November 4—The Treasury Department is having a difficult time in filling orders from national banks for one and two dollar bills. The volume of free currency of these denominations has been dwindling at a very rapid rate during the last four or five months and is now so small that it is necessary to limit the number that may be doled out to the banks.

The shortage of money is charged by Treasurer Roberts against the exhaustion of the silver bullion. As is generally known silver certificates of small denomination are issued against coined silver dollars, the latter being stored away in the Treasury vaults as guarantee for the paper money. When Congress stopped the purchase of silver bullion for this purpose, there remained in the possession of the government a tremendous amount of the uncoined metal. This has been gradually used from month to month since, but practically the last bit of it was coined in February of this year when the mints turned out 66,000 standard silver dollars. That was the last time any addition was made to the volume of circulating currency in the most popular form of money—the one and two dollar bills.

The daily Treasury statement has given a graphic account of the rapid eating up of the reserve stock of silver dollars against which Treasurer Roberts could draw for new circulation. In July of this year the Treasury had more than 19,000,000 silver dollars and there was then no difficulty in honoring the demands of banks for small notes. But with the movement of crops in August this sum began to shrink. It fell off in chunks and now is considerably less than 1,000,000. In fact, to be exact, the government to-day has only 893,298 free silver dollars, and consequently it is limited in increasing the circulaton of small notes to that figure.

At the begnning of every day's busness Treasurer Roberts examines the report of the number of free silver dollars on hand. He then tells the cashier how many silver certificates may be shipped during the day, and this limit is rigidly adhered to. It frequently happens that national banks will have their applications for additional notes cut in half. Sometimes their demands are honored in full.

"The demand for small notes this year is greater than ever before," said Treasurer Roberts to-day. "We are prepared to issue as many as may be called for, the presses at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing being capable now of fulfilling the limit of expectation. But we are restricted by law from issuing silver certificates except upon free silver dollars in the Treasury, and since the coinage of these dollars was stopped it has had a very pronounced effect on the Treasury. I have recommended a measure which I believe will relieve the present situation. I propose the issuance of gold certificates for five and ten dollars. Under the present arrangement the smallest gold certificates that are issued are for twenty dollars. If we furnish a large stock of gold certificates of the denomination of five dollars it would relieve in a great measure the demand for smaller silver certificates."

The stock of 893,000 silver dollars referred to above represents not only the stock in the Treasury in Washington, but at all its sub-treasuries throughout the country. There are nine sub-treasuries, so it will be readily seen that $893,000 is a small sum to be divided up for supplying the entire business interests of the country with new one and two dollar bills. The only hope the Treasury has of getting a larger reserve stock is in the redemption of large quantities of silver certificates of small denomination and the issuance in their stead of ten followed in other directions. Bureau chiefs are very generally holding back their annual reports for fear that a controversy may grow out of some unguarded official comment. In certain instances annual reports were prepared and made ready for publication, only to be recalled. This is particularly true with regard to reports in the War Department. By this time in past years most of the annual reports had been made public, but the number released this year may be counted on the fingers of two hands.

The scene in the room of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Taylor to-day was typical of the amount of activity being displayed in the government offices. Mr. Taylor was tilted comfortably back in a deep leather chair, smoking a cigar, and his feet resting lightly on the top of his desk. Assistant Secretary Keep was seated near by in a little more dignified attitude and two or three division chiefs were reclining on easy chairs. The officials were discussing the chances of Roosevelt's election when a stranger remarked that they all seemed to be working rather hard. "What's the use of doing any work," observed one of the officials jocularly, "as long as the Democrats are so certain that Parker is going to be elected, when of course we will all be turned out."

Unveiling of German Emperor's Statue.

The unveiling of the statue of Frederick the Great, which was recently presented to the United States by the Emperor of Germany, will take place on November 19. It will be a notable incident, for it is intended to take advantage of the occasion to order out all the troops stationed in the vicinity of Washington in an imposing military demonstration.

The statue, which is in bronze, was quietly placed in position on its pedestal on the esplanade of the Army War College building on Tuesday. Only a few persons were present at this ceremony.

The programme of exercises for the unveiling includes addresses by President Roosevelt, Acting Secretary of War Oliver,

JOHNNIE'S SCHOOL DAYS

Poverty and school matters have brought Johnnie into the Children's Court.

The youngster has black Italian hair, an Etruscan gold complexion, a viva Italia smile and Michael-Angelo eyes; and, although there is more of the pure, unadulterated Italy than the angel in his composition, it does not worry him.

Johnnie's school record is marred by long, dull seasons, resting periods and bad spells. Oftentimes he does not answer to the name he bears, popular though it be throughout Christendom. Whether he was subject periodically to spontaneous combustion, or had made a contract with the minions of unrighteousness to export himself in carload lots, he kept the fact a secret. He never even hired a substitute to receive for him the broad, enduring principles of knowledge and the discipline provided for him by the municipality. In such defaults, only the unanswering atmosphere occupied the place where previously his dark trans-Atlantic beauty had participated in what the teacher had to say. His soft, primary-grade voice disturbed not the melody that knowledge makes falling on the ears of childhood; and his teacher would not know whether Johnnie was to be numbered among the casualties or only the missing.

If the facts must come out, Johnnie's home life is not surrounded by all modern improvements. One of the modern improvements it lacks is money. The ordinary wear and tear he causes in the food and furniture has been too much, much too much.

So his mother has asked the Children's Court to take him from her and put him in an institution—file him away, like a useless document, among the short-trousered

When he died the [illegible] took charge of every thing but I attended funeral and She got all personal property and his pension papers. Right after his death I went to Ins Co. and found Estate Policy had lapsed and protested against payment of $138. policy. Finally I was told by Ins Co. that they paid Undertaker his bill Mr Schufelt - Van Buren st. This was bill in full. Since then the Undertaker has called upon my Brother in Law Charles Baker, husband of my sister residing 26 Berkley Pl. and asked assistance of myself and sister to collect $35. from the Pension. We were not content and my Father died possessed of Means to bury him and was buried and expenses paid and we prefer to permit any accrued pension that may be due our Father at his death to go with United States. This woman cannot claim Common Law Marriage. My Mother has remained the wife of Charles P Caldwell and resides 26 Berkley Pl.

DEPOSITION B

Case of William T. Collins, No. 945158

On this 12 day of March, 1901, at Brooklyn, county of Kings, State of N.Y., before me, F. H. Sprague, a special examiner of the Bureau of Pensions, personally appeared Cornelia F. Spicer, who, being by me first duly sworn to answer truly all interrogatories propounded to her during this special examination of aforesaid claim for pension, deposes and says:

I am 42 years of age reside No 78 Carroll St Brooklyn N.Y., wife of Joseph Spicer.

I knew in his lifetime William T Collins alias William H Mayo of Co. C, 84 N.Y. Vol Inf. I first knew him eighteen years ago. about 1882 or 83. He at this time away from his wife and he told me he had been divorced and since that time he has lived at my house and died at my my house. My husband brought him there and about fourteen years ago left me. There was never any divorce between me and my husband. Drink cause of separation. He did not not live with me as Spicer or I did not take his name Collins each kept our names but lived together same flat or house. About thirteen years ago I personally took out policy of insurance for $138. on his life and paid it until his death. I know nothing of any policy for $115 taken out by him or his family for estate or any member of family. At his death

I took charge of funeral and buried him and paid expenses of burial out of Insurance policy. I show you Undertakers bill I show you for $106 - with credit of $70 - $36 - still due - Doctor Bill $44 - unpaid - Exhibit - My personal bills. I paid Insurance and the policy payable to me which I have collected - No Money has been Collected from Kings County for burial - $35 & $150 No claim has been Made for accrued due at date of death. Jany 23 1901 - Pension due from Nov 4 - at $12 - Soldier left No widow - and no Minor Children under sixteen at date of death - And left no Means whatever - except the Insurance and that in my favor and Mostly paid for by Myself - He had two daughters both Married - at time of death Neither of these daughters Contributed towards expenses of last sickness or burial - They called to see him and attended funeral - but they did not Contribute. He was buried in his sisters lot - I made No claim as Common Law Wife I claim as stranger - I surrender papers as requested. I understand contents of this deposition

Hon. H. Clay Evans,
Commissioner of Pensions,
Sir:-

I have the honor to submit the following report in case of William T. Collins alias William H. Mayo - deceased late Co. C, 84 N.Y. N.G. Vol. Inf., a pensioner under Certificate No. 945,158, N.Y. City N.Y. Agency. Complaint was made by Mrs. Edith W. Davidson, a daughter of soldier that pensioner at his death was living with Mrs. Cornelia F. Spicer, and was buried by her. and that she had a husband living. and that he left assets sufficient to pay burial expenses and requesting that Pension Certificate be recovered.

Mrs Spicer surrendered the Pension Certificate upon demand but claims that burial expenses are not fully paid and that the Insurance left was made in her

Dear Sir,

I had received pension application papers & proof of identity for William T. Collins who had enlisted in Civil War under the alias William H. Mayo several years ago. I have now proven him to be my ancestor & I wish to obtain the remaining documents in the pension file. I have made a list of the documents you previously sent to me so that they will not be duplicated.

Check enclosed for $12.60 which is the price indicated by you.

Thank you
Jacqueline

Attention is invited to the outlines of the human skeleton and figure upon the back of this certificate, which should be used to indicate precisely the location of a disease or injury, the entrance and exit of a missile, an amputation, etc.

Birthday Pos'b after [illegible] 1845

We hereby certify that upon examination we find the following objective conditions:

Pulse rate, 80, 92, 100 [Sitting, standing, after exercise.], respiration, 20, 22, 24 [Sitting, standing, after exercise.], temperature, 98.2, height, 5 feet 5 inches; actual weight, 130 pounds; age, 55 years.

Here give a full description of the disabilities, in accordance with Book of Instructions.

LEFT INGUINAL HERNIA. --- There is a complete, oblique, inguinal hernia of left side. Tumor enters canal, passes external ring and descends into scrotum. Tumor is 4 inches long, 2 1/2 inches in diameter; external ring is 2 inches in diameter. Tumor can be reduced and controlled by truss. Hydrocele and Varicocele excluded. RATE: 10/18.

RHEUMATISM. --- There is some swelling and local heat in left hand, with a loss of power in hand of one-quarter; pain and stiffness in both shoulders, and some stiffness in hips. This is also his alleged LAMENESS OF LEFT HIP. All other joints, muscles and tendons, except as otherwise noted, apparently normal. RATE: 6/18.

The actual or probable origin of every existing disability must be fully set forth. Whenever a disability is shown or is believed to be due to or aggravated by vicious habits the opinion of the board must be stated. When not due to such habits this fact must be stated.

DISEASE OF HEART. --- Area of dulness increased downward; apex visible at sixth intercostal space. No murmurs, no oedema; dyspnoeaand flushing of face on exertion. RATE: HYPERTROPHY, 4/18.

DISEASE OF EYES. --- There is granular conjunctivitis of both eyes. Left pupil is irregular and does not respond to stimulation. H. M. x 1/12 V - 20/70 from 8/200; x 1/5 V - Snellen .50 at 13", O. D. V - 2/200, which no glass improves for near or far, O. S. RATE: DISEASE OF EYES AND IMPAIRED VISION, 14/18.

Each disability must be rated separately, the act of Congress of March 2, 1895, requiring "that the report of such examining surgeons shall specifically state the rating which, in their judgment, the applicant is entitled to."

MALARIA. --- Claimant alleges having a feeling of malaise, with occasional chills and fever, the attacks coming about twice a year and lasting two or three weeks. The last chill was about two months ago. Tongue coated; and fissured; skin, liver and stomach normal; abdomen tympanitic and slightly tender; spleen normal; rectum as described. Claimant alleges constipation. RATE: 4/18.

When rates are recommended solely on subjective evidence the strongest reasons must be given therefor.

SCURVY. --- There is an eczematous eruption on palmar surface of left hand, which is desquamating and fissured, which claimant alleges is the result of scurvy. RATE 4/18.

DISEASE OF BLADDER. --- Claimant alleges difficult micturition, and that he occasionally has to strain severely. Urine, amber, Sp. Gr. 1.012, acid, no albumin, no sugar. Prostate is enlarged. This is also his alleged DISEASE OF URINARY ORGANS. RATE: PROSTATITIS, 2/18.

PRESENT CLAIM, ACT OF JUNE 27, 1890.

Declaration filed September 18, 1899., alleges Left inguinal hernia Declaration for the Increase of Pension and for New Disability under Act of June 27, 1890.

State of New York, County of Kings, ss:

On this 13th day of September, A.D. one thousand eight hundred and ninety nine personally appeared before me, a Commissioner of Deeds within and for the county and State aforesaid, William T. Collins, aged 55 years, a resident of the Borough of Brooklyn, county of Kings State of New York who being duly sworn according to law declares that he is a pensioner of the United States, enrolled at the NY City NY Pension Agency, at the rate of 6. dollars per month, Certificate No. 945158, by reason of disability from Partial inability to earn a support by manual labor
Here name the disability for which pension was granted.

That he was a Private in Co. C 84th, Regt. NY State Mil ~~Vols.~~, NYS Militia Company and regiment of service if in the Army, or vessel and rank, if in the Navy;
having enlisted on July 12, 1864 and honorably discharged on Oct. 31st 1864

That he has not been employed in the Military or Naval service otherwise than as stated above.

That he did not serve prior to July 12/64 nor since Oct 31st 1864

That he believes himself to be entitled to an increase of pension on account of Business cause
Here state the reasons for applying for increase. If on account of increase in the disability for which already pensioned, that should be described.

And he also believes himself to be entitled to a further increase of pension on account of the following disabilities for which he has not heretofore been pensioned total inability to earn a support by manual labor
If either of these new disabilities are the result of an injury or accident, state where, when, and how they were incurred.

That said disabilities are not the result of his vicious habits and are to the best of his knowledge permanent in character; that he appoints BUTTS & PHILLIPS of Washington, D. C., his true and lawful attorneys to prosecute his claim. That his P. O. address is 134 Union St Brooklyn, County of Kings, State of New York

For Jeren Nilsen, Olivia Humphrey, David Baker.

After viewing the Civil War series on TV this week, I thought I would give you some info. on WILLIAM T. COLLINS, my great grandfather , b. abt 1844 in Brooklyn or Manhattan, N.Y. Died 1901

My father Homer Baker told me that his grandfather served in the Civil War, but stated that his name was Edward Collins. He stated that his grandmother (Nellie Louise Gaylor/Gaylord) married 3 times.
He stated that she married Collins , Clark and Charles Caldwell. He stated that Collins died and Clark left her. This info. threw me off on searching for several years because his information was skewed.
In actuality, her first husband was William T. Collins, whom she divorced, her second husb. was Edward Clark who died a short time after the marriage and her third husband was Charles Caldwell who survived her.

Another roadblock was that William T. Collins enlisted in N.Y. City as William H. Mayo in Co. C. 84th N.Y. Infantry Militia. I won't write about the many records that I searched for several years before I honed onto the name Mayo.

William's mother Jeanette (Von Vultee) Collins had two husbands. The first husband was named Oliver Mayo and William Collins had older half siblings named Mayo. I do not know the reason why William enlisted as Mayo, but when he applied for a war pension in 1897, he had to prove that he was the same person as William T. Collins. This ~~which~~ was fortunate in that it generated official records which were very helpful to me. William's Pension papers gives his marriage to Nellie Louise Gaylord and the names of his children, Nellie Louisa and Edith W. Collins. His daughter Edith Collins Davidson made an affidavit after his death and even mentioned her brother in law Charles Baker (who had married her sister Nellie L. Collins).

This is a great primary record which would have saved me much research time, had I had the information in earlier years. I had tracked the family in a different very tedious way.

William H. Mayo alias William T. Collins, who was 5 ft 4 inches tall, enlisted at about 23 years of age, in N.Y. City, about July 12 1864 in the 84th N.Y. Infantry as a Private, serving for 100 days from July 1864 - 31 Oct. 1864. He was mustered in at Fort Albany, Virginia, and mustered out at the same place. He served under 1st Lt. John A. Sutton who deposed that William had participated in all the marches of that company and that they had quite a few good ones.

Lt. Sutton mentioned that the company lay over at Great Falls Maryland and were at Martinsburg West Virginia.

~~An~~ Internet shows that Fort Albany was in Arlington Virginia, just across the river from Washington D.C. The Fort is no longer there.

Great Falls Maryland is not far from there, and is located on the Potomac River. Modern ~~amps~~ maps show it as a scenic site to visit.

Martinsburg, West Virginia is about 79 miles north west of Washington D.C.

FHC Reel 861523

West Virginia was formed as a direct result of the Civil War. It was formed from Virginia about 1861 and joined the Union in 1863.

I have not determined why William's company marched to these places , or if he served in any battle during 1864.

William was only a Private. He did not make a prominent mark during his life, but he had an illustrious ancestry which you all share. The early Collins line was much respected and included several preachers. The direct line also leads to Gov. William Bradford who came in 1620 on the Mayflower.

Arlington Heights was strengthened by connecting several forts from Ft. Corcoran to Fort Albany (from Key Bridge to 14 St bridge. A map shows that Ft. Albany was located in what is now the junction of S. Arlington Ridge Rd. & S. Nash St. A plaque marks the place. It was a bastioned earthwork built May 1861, to command the approach to the Long Bridge by way of Columbia Turnpike. It had a perimeter of 429 yards and emplacements for 12 heavy guns. The ground on which the fort stood was cut away during construction of Henry G. Shirley Mem'l Highway in 1942.

Ft. Albany was built on high ground to protect the rear of Ft. Runyan (under present day I-395, near overlook park). Ft. Runyan was the largest fort in the defense of Washington.

In 1865, Arlington Co. of today, was called Alexandria Co. It had been devastated by the Civil War. From 1861-1865 the entire county was occupied by Union troops to defend the Capital. 100,000 Union troops served there.
Before 1864, Union troops in Alexandria Co. had a soft assignment because no battle was fought there. In 1864, the Infantry was sent to replace men in General Grant's army headed for Richmond. This created a dearth of troops in Alexandria Co.

This must have been about the time that William T. Collins alias Mayo was deployed to the area. Arlington

JACQUELINE HUMPHREY 3484 Saddle Brook Drive Melbourne Fl 32934

Gen. 8 - proving William Collins of N.Y. City was the same as William Collins, son of Oliver Collins of Springfield MA.

Birth : William Collins born 10 March 1798 Springfield MA, bapt. 18 March 1798 Springfield MA. Proves that his father was Oliver Collins. Son William was executor of father Oliver's estate in 1844. The 1844 probate papers of Hampdan Co. MA prove that son William COLLINS RESIDED IN NEW YORK CITY, NEW YORK COUNTY, NEW YORK STATE, ie: Manhattan.

By 1847 William Collins was employed in Manhattan, occupation ready-made linen, residence in Brooklyn N.Y. as found on City Directory.
1850 census, William Collins resided in B'klyn N.Y.; occup. Clockmaker.

Coroner's Inquest Certif. of death for William Collins, #1465 in Brooklyn N.Y., lists his death on the 7th March 1866, age 67 yrs, 11 months, 25 days. This agrees nicely with the time of birth of William Collins s/o Oliver, in Springfield MA.

William Collins married 1841 in Manhattan in St. Matthews Lutheran Church as 2nd husband to Jeanette F.L. von Vultee, widow of Capt. Oliver Mayo. This also places William Collins in Manhattan ca 1841.

An original photograph of William Collins 1798-1866 is now in my possession. This picture was taken in the 1860's shortly before his 1866 death, based on his appearance as an old man. This photo was held in the Collins family, the last owner being the widow Alyce (Tyson) Maris, 1891-1988. Alyce was the great grand daughter of William Collins 1798-1866. Alyce had no children.
Alyce was raised in Brooklyn N.Y. by her great Aunt LUCINDA CHAPMAN (Collins) Whitney, having been orphaned at age 7.

Alyce Maris' Vultee cousin Mary Ann (Prettyman) Willard was executor of Alyce Maris' estate in 1988. Mary Ann has no Collins ancestry. She found the photograph of William Collins in Alyce's effects.

Mrs. Willard is not a genealogy searcher. Another Vultee descendant found me and told me about Mary Ann Willard. I have never met her, so she has no incentive to give me false information. She kindly made a notarized statement regarding how she came to have possession of the old picture of William Collins.

The value of this old original photograph of William Collins is that the back of it states in handwriting that WILLIAM COLLINS WAS BORN IN SPRINGFIELD MA. It also gives the names of two of his great grand children.

Several census records in Brooklyn 1850-1865 list William Collins as BORN IN MA ca 1798/1799. He was husband of Jeannette, and had children Jeannette and William, as well as two step-sons with surname Mayo on 1850 census. William Collins third child LUCINDA Collins appeared on 1865 census, having been born after the 1850 census.

William Collins was murdered in Brooklyn in March 1866. He left three children according to Brooklyn Daily Eagle articles giving an account of the murder. His daughter Jeanette made a deposition and his son William gave a deposition at the inquest, both of whom were mentioned in the newspaper article. The third child LUCINDA was too young to give a deposition.

William Collins who died 1866 and wife Jeanette (von Vultee) (Mayo) Collins and son William T. Collins who died 1901 and a daughter LUCINDA A. Collins who died as a child, were all buried together in the Gertrude Vultee lot in Greenwood Cem. in B'klyn. Gertrude was the mother of Jeannette (von Vultee) (Mayo) Collins.

An unpublished Vultee history written before 1914, was in the effects of Alyce Tyson Maris when she died in 1988. Executor Mary Ann (Prettyman) Willard is now in possession of it. This history listed William Collins who married Jeanette von Vultee, as being FROM SPRINGFIELD MA.

Jeanette (von Vultee) (Mayo) Collins' death notice in 1879 in B'klyn Daily Eagle asks SPRINGFIELD MA newspapers to please copy. Her deceased husband William Collins still had a brother Henry residing in Springfield and other relatives there.

FHC Reel 861523

LUCINDA Cooley married Oliver Collins as his second wife in Longmeadow/Springfield MA. She was the mother of William Collins born 10 March 1798 in Springfield MA. Oliver and LUCINDA Collins also had a daughter LUCINDA who married as second wife to Moses CHAPMAN in Springfield MA.

William Collins 1798-1866 named two daughters LUCINDA. The first was LUCINDA A. Collins who was born ca 1842/46 and died young. She was buried in Greenwood Cem. Bklyn with her parents. The second daughter named LUCINDA had the middle name Chapman. She married George Whitney who predeceased her and was buried in Boston MA. LUCINDA CHAPMAN (Collins) Whitney was buried with her sister Jeanette (Collins) (Blakely) Kretschmar in the Kretschmar plot in Greenwood Cem. in B'klyn.

It is obvious that the name LUCINDA was important to William Collins 1798-1866. His mother was LUCINDA (Cooley) Collins and his sister was LUCINDA Collins who married Moses CHAPMAN.

Gen. 9 - William T. Collins ca 1844-1901.

William's only wife Nellie Louisa Gaylor was sometimes known as Gaylord. She was usually called Louise. The family was known as Gaylor early in Montgomery Co. N.Y. and in 1850 census Albany N.Y. and in 1855 State census in Buffalo N.Y. The BEST PROOF OF HER BIRTH is in 1850 census when she was 3 yrs old and in 1855 census when she was 7 yrs old. This makes her birth ca 1847 or 1848.

Nellie "Louisa" Gaylor married three times. She became younger with each marriage. I take other records of her age as fibbing.

The unpublished Vultee hist., written about 1914, lists William Collins as son of William Collins and Jeannette Vultee; also that the son William married Nellie Gaylord, by whom he had two daughters, then separated from his wife. This all agrees with my own known family; daughter Nellie L. (Collins) Baker being my grandmother. William Collins' Civil War Pension application deposition also agrees with the Vultee history.

In the Bow/Gaylor plot in Greenwood Cem. Brooklyn, where Nellie L. (Gaylor/Gaylord) Collins' parents lie buried, as well as Nellie's 3 sisters, some of them are listed as Gaylord. See enclosed paper.

Gen. 10 - Nellie Louisa Collins 1866-1933.

Both Nellie and her husband Charles H. Baker were born too early for official birth certificates. Nellie's father, William T. Collins, 1844-1901, made a deposition for Civil War Pension application that gives daughter Nellie's birth in Dec. 1866. This is the date I am using for proof.

Nellie Jr. also apparently fibbed her age on marriage and death certif. and appears as a younger age in several records.

Preface.

Springfield was settled in 1636 by William Pynchon and some of his associates from Roxbury. He had aided in establishing a church in Roxbury, being a devout and well read Christian who could preach a sermon or debate theology with the ablest divines, and was active in public affairs.

The first church in Springfield was probably organized in 1637. Rev. George Moxon of Boston arrived in the autumn of that year and was the first pastor. He was a personal friend of William Pynchon and had been in Dorchester before coming here. He served the church 15 years, until 1652, when he was dismissed at his own request and returned to England with Mr. Pynchon.

The first meeting house was built by Thomas Cooper, begun in 1645 and finished March, 1646. There have been four church buildings, the present one having been built in 1819.

From 1652 until 1660 there was no regular pastor, Mr. John Pynchon, Deacons Wright and Chapin, and others carried on the services. The church chose Rev. Pelatiah Glover, a young man of Dorchester, as the second pastor, and in Sept., 1661 he was settled here and remained a faithful minister 32 years; he died March 29, 1692.

The pulpit was vacant two years when Rev. Daniel Brewer, a native of Roxbury, was ordained pastor in May, 1694 and continued in the ministry 40 years, until his death, Nov. 5, 1733.

The church was unsuccessful in finding a regular pastor for two years, then a call was extended to Rev. Robert Breck, a youthful minister, a native of Marlboro. He was ordained here Jan. 27, 1736 and served the church 49 years, until he died, April 23, 1784. to 1808

Rev. Bezaleel Howard, born in Bridgewater, was the next pastor, coming to Springfield in April, 1785 and serving 23 years.

The earliest records of the church now extant are those kept by Mr. Breck and Mr. Howard, in their own hand writing, in a small book. This book, about 6½ x 8 inches, is still in the possession of the church and is kept in the bank vault. The book covers the years 1736 to 1809 and contains the Covenant, church business, baptisms, marriages, deaths, admissions, dis- 1736-1809 missions, list of those who owned the Covenant 1736, list of 1735-6 members Jan., 1735/6, an account of those admitted to full com- " munion Jan. 27, 1735/6 (to April 21, 1782), list of members 4/27/1785
April 27, 1785, and an account of those admitted to full com- 1785-1809 munion 1785 to 1809. The last five lists were printed in the Manual of the First Church, Springfield, compiled in 1885 by Theo. W. Ellis.

The records (baptisms, marriages, and deaths, 1736-1809) given in the following pages are an exact copy of those in this old book.

JOHN W. HOWARD JR. 9/28/06

DEAR JACKIE,

IT IS ALWAYS NICE TO HEAR FROM YOU AND I'M GLAD THE HURRICANE SEASON HAS NOT BEEN TO BAD SO FAR.

MY GRANDMOTHER EDITH ALTHOUGH BLIND NEVER HAD ANY PROBLEM WITH HEARING, SHE WAS TRULY A REMARKABLE LADY, WHO I ALWAYS ADMIRED.

I'M GETTING ALONG PRETTY WELL WITH MY * LARENJECTOMEE, BUT IT IS A NUISANCE FROM TIME TO TIME. PEEPSIE, SON BILL AND THE GRANDCHILDREN ARE DOING FINE.

YOU TAKE CARE OF YOURSELF AND ENJOY THE GOOD FLORIDA WEATHER.

SINCERLY,
Johnny

His grandmother Edith Collins, sister of my Nellie (Collins) (Baker) Fisher.

Edith had Retinitis Pigmentosis, same as her nephew Homer Baker SR. Edith married John C. Davidson
Homer had deafness also.
I needed to find out if Edith had deafness because it might indicate Usher Syndrome that sometimes goes with Retinitis P.
However, since Homer was deaf + blind, the deafness might have had a different cause.
Homer's sister Ruth also had Retinitis P.
+ a slight speech impediment

No Blindness found in any generation prior in my genealogy research

Dear Jacquie,

Here at last is the response to your "genealogical request" -- the notarized document. I received your letter and draft soon after we got in here, which was the first week of March (the Dobbs Ferry letter was forwarded here also, about a week later). I'm sorry it has taken me so long. We've been pretty busy, but now that Cliff is becoming more deeply involved with tax work I have more time of my own, so I could give this project more attention.

How fascinating that you've found that you are descended from Gov. Bradford, of the Mayflower and the Plymouth colony! What a thrill! I hope the enclosed will help you join the Mayflower Society. You certainly deserve to, after all the genealogical work you have done, to say nothing of your credentials. My paternal grandmother was deeply involved in genealogical study, but she seemed to be concerned mainly with proving that we were all descended from kings, which we found both unlikely and rather boring. Some things were interesting, though: the name Prettyman is supposedly a corruption of the French (Norman) nickname prête des mains (meaning "the ready-handed"), given to the ancestor who came over to England with William the Conqueror. When I was little, that seemed small consolation for having such a funny last name!

One problem here is that all my papers relating to Alyse are on a shelf back in Dobbs Ferry. They doubtless include some communications received from the lawyer (whose name I do not recall, and I never met him). My principal role as Alyse's executor was to spend almost 2 weeks in Washington, going through her household furnishings and personal effects and designating (in accordance with a memorandum very carefully made out by Alyse years earlier) just which items were to be sent to just which legatee. (I used those colored dots they have at stationery stores to identify the six or so different legatees.) As co-personal representative, I also had to "sign off on" or agree to certain necessary acts (eg, income tax matters), as instructed by the Riggs Bank people.

The person I dealt with almost exclusively was a young woman from Riggs Bank, whose name I do not recall. However, I am sure that one could write to the bank simply as Riggs Bank, Washington, DC, attention Department of Estates and Wills (maybe Trusts), or some such (the Riggs headquarters building is a big imposing affair, doubtless well known to the post office!). They would undoubtedly have the records about Alyse, should these be necessary, since we know her date and place of death.

Otherwise, I should think that what is provided here is fairly convincing evidence that William Collins was known by his own great-granddaughter to have been born in Springfield, MA, in 1798, and that that information was imparted to me by Alyse herself, either in person or by letter or note. About the brooch with the hair of William and Jeannette, I have it right here in Vermillion because I just love it, and wear it often! But there is no question in my mind but that you should have it – I just haven't been able to nerve myself up to send it to you forthwith!

What I will do, however, is write a statement of intent, to give to each of my two daughters, indicating that you, Jacqueline Baker Humphrey, and/or your heirs, are the family members who rightfully should have this brooch containing your ancestors' hair. You, like Alyse, are descended from Jeannette Vultee (Mayo) Collins; I am descended only from her "kid" brother Theodore Hermann Vultee, born after his father's death. So he and William Collins were "in-laws," not brothers (I wonder if they ever met!). Did you ever meet Alyse, whose cousin you are? What fascinating ramifications there are to all this genealogy stuff, aren't there!

Very best wishes,

Mary Anne

The purpose of this paper is to verify and document the handwriting on the back of an original picture, (taken about 1860-1866), of William Collins b. March 1798 Springfield MA, who died 7 March 1866, Brooklyn, N.Y.

I, Mary Anne (Prettyman) (Willard) Cracauer was the executor of the estate of Alyce Marie (Tyson) Maris, Aug. 2, 1891 Brooklyn N.Y., d. Jan. 3, 1988 Washington, D.C. Alyce was the widow of Col. William Richard Maris. Alyce was the great grand daughter of William Collins born 1798 Springfield MA, died 1866 Brooklyn, N.Y. The estate of Alyce Maris was probated in Washington, D.C. by the Law Firm of ____.

Alyce (Tyson) Maris left no issue; bequests were made to Vultee cousins, of which I am one. Alyce was in possession of a small original photograph of William Collins taken when he was an old man, prior to his 1866 death. On the back of this old picture, written in old handwriting, were the words, "William Collins, Blakelys and Alyces Great Grandfather born in Springfield Mass." (Blakely Tyson was a brother of Alyce (Tyson) Maris).

The lawyers who executed the estate of Alyce (Tyson) Maris requested that I submit a Pedigree of the Vultee family to prove the relationship of the cousins mentioned in the will of Alyce. Alyce had in her possession an unpublished unauthored history of the Vultee family which mentioned much of the family until the year 1914.

In this history, it is listed that Jeannette Fredericka Louisa Vultee d. Feb. 23, 1879. She married Capt. Oliver Mayo who died in 1839. In 1841, she married William Collins of Springfield Mass. Their first child Jeannette Amelia Collins was born Dec. 28, 1843, died Oct. 23, 1895, married in 1861 Geo. Peter Blakely, killed in the Civil War on Dec. 16, 1864. Jeannette married second in 1870 to Charles Parks Kretschmar; no issue by this second marriage.

The history mentions that Jeannette Collins) Blakelys daughter, Cora Georgette Blakely was born May 20, 1862 in Brooklyn, N.Y., died Oct. 23, 1897 in Ashville, N.C. She married Oct. 30, 1887 to Charles Henry Tyson. Their two children born in Brooklyn, N.Y. were Blakely Monroe Tyson b. July 28, 1888 and Alyce Marie Tyson born Aug. 2, 1891. These were the two mentioned on the back of the picture of William Collins.

The Vultee history also lists the son of William Collins of Springfield Mass. and his wife Jeannette (Vultee) Mayo, as William Collins who married Nellie Gaylord and had two daughters, then separated. The history mentions that the son William Collins died suddenly in 1902. (He actually died in 1901).

Questions:
Could Mary Anne read b. 1798 on back of the photo?

Can Mary Anne recognise Alyce's handwriting to date the handwriting on the pic as not being that of Alyce?

Jackie's thoughts. Handwriting seems to be from a generation before Alyce and her bro. Blakely.

Dear Mary Anne,

I have another Genealogical request for you if you would be so kind. I think I mentioned to you that I have tracked William Collins' line back to the Immigrant, and in the process found that I am a direct descendant of Gov. William Bradford who came on the Mayflower and was Gov. of Plymouth Colony.

I am trying to obtain proofs of the line so that I can join the Mayflower Soc'y. I can do that quite nicely except for proving that Wm Collins of Bklyn b. March 1798 - d. 1866, was the same Wm Collins b. March 1798 Springfield MA who was s/o Oliver Collins and Lucinda Cooley.

Wm's Coroner's Bklyn death certif. just says he was born in USA. A couple of census records mention that he was b. in MA. The only proof I have is that the back of his old picture says that he was born in Springfield MA. I am hoping that the Mayflower Socy will accept a notarized paper from you giving the history of the picture as far as you know it, since there doesn't seem to be any other way to prove it in an official document.

I am sending you a draft what I think should be on this notarized paper. Would you kindly tell me the name and address of the lawyer who executed the estate of Alyce. I assume that you were the executor. If your title was not exec and was Adm. or something, please correct it for me.

Please proofread and correct anything not to your liking. You can email me if that would be easier. Jhumphre@ix.netcom.com

If you know that the yr 1798 was written on the back of the original picture, please inform me so that I can include it in the body of the letter.

I would like to obtain membership, so that I can get the line documented for the future for my grandchildren and great grandchildren. At my age, illness can strike quickly. In fact, my healthy husband died 5 months after he was diagnosed with cancer and he was young.

I am sending this to both your addresses, to be sure you get it in a timely manner.

I hope that you will be willing to have a paper notarixzed for me.

Statement re WILLIAM COLLINS to be notarized and sent to Jacqueline B. Humphrey

I, Mary Anne Cracauer (nee Prettyman; m. Willard 1/43 – 10/96), served as the "co-personal representative" (co-executor) of the estate of Alyse Marie (Tyson) Maris (born Aug.2, 1891, in Brooklyn, NY). My cousin Alyse Tyson Maris died Jan 3, 1988, in Washington, DC, where her will was probated and in accordance with whose terms I was designated as a co-executor. The other co-executor of her estate was the Riggs Bank, also of Washington, DC, who handled all necessary details of the estate and dealt with the probate court. (As the widow of Col. William R. Maris, Alyse had been living in retirement at Army Distaff Hall in Washington for some years prior to her death.)

Alyse was a great-granddaughter of William Collins, who was born in Springfield, MA, in 1798 and died in Brooklyn, NY, in 1866. Alyse Tyson Maris left no issue; she had directed that her estate be divided among certain cousins, including several Vultee cousins, of which I am one. Among Alyse's effects was a small original photograph of William Collins, taken when he was an old man, not long before his 1866 death. On the back of this old photo, written in four lines in Alyse's hand, were the words "William Collins Blakley's [sic] & Alyse's Great Grandfather Born in Springfield Mass." (Blakeley Tyson was Alyse's elder brother.) I (Mary Anne Cracauer) have given this original photograph of William Collins to Jacqueline Baker Humphrey, his great-granddaughter and, like myself, a Vultee descendant.

On this same photo, I had added in pencil (probably in 1989 or '90) the year "1798." I had obtained this date from Alyse, from an identifying tag written by her and attached to a brooch she had given to me many years before her death. The brooch contains the combined locks of hair (white and brown) of William Collins and his relatively young bride, Jeannette Frederika Louisa Vultee. Jeannette's father, Frederick L. Vultee, was the ancestor common to Alyse, Jacqueline Baker Humphrey, and myself (we are all his great-great-granddaughters).

At the time of Alyse's death, I had been requested by the Riggs Bank officials who were the co-executors of her estate to submit a genealogy or family tree of the Vultee family, to help sort out the relationships of those mentioned in her will (yet another of her legatees was likewise a descendent of Frederick L. Vultee). Alyse had had in her possession several copies of an unpublished, unauthored history of the Vultee family which related the history of much of the family up to the year 1914. Since Alyse had earlier sent me one such (carbon) copy, I used this information to construct an abbreviated family tree of the relevant cousins (there were 11 Vultees born in the USA, of whom Alyse's (and Jacqueline's) ancestor Jeannette was No. 2; mine was No. 11).

In this history, Jeannette Frederika Louisa Vultee (b. Sept 3, 1809; d. Feb 23, 1879) is listed as married first (1832) to Capt. Oliver Mayo, who died in 1839. In 1841, she married William Collins of Springfield, Mass. Their first child, Jeannette Amelia Collins (b. Dec 18, 1843; d. Oct 23, 1895), married George Peter Blakeley in 1861, and lost him to the Civil War on Dec 16, 1864. Their daughter, Cora Georgette, was born in Brooklyn on May 20, 1862 (d. Oct 23, 1897). On Oct 30, 1887, Cora Blakeley married

I, Mary Anne Cracauer (nee Prettyman; m. Willard 1/43 – 10/96), served as the "co-personal representative" (co-executor) of the estate of Alyse Marie (Tyson) Marix (born Aug 2, 1891, in Brooklyn, NY). My cousin Alyse Tyson Marix died Jan 3, 1989, in Washington, DC, where her will was probated and in accordance with whose terms I was designated as a co-executor. The other co-executor of her estate was the Riggs Bank, also of Washington, DC, who handled all necessary details of the estate and dealt with the probate court. (As the widow of Col. William R. On Oct 30, 1887, Cora Blakeley married

Charles Henry Tyson. The two children of this marriage, both born in Brooklyn, were Blakeley Monroe Tyson (b. July 28, 1888) and Alyse Marie Tyson (b. Aug 2, 1891). These are the two great-grandchildren mentioned on the back of the old picture of William Collins. (Alyse is also, of course, the cousin who had owned the photo.)

The history also mentions that William Collins of Springfield, Mass, and Jeannette (Vultee) Mayo had had a son, also William Collins, born in 1852, who married in 1876 Nellie Gaylord, by whom he had two daughters (the couple then separated). Although the history states that William Collins the son died suddenly in 1902, he actually died in 1901. His daughter Nellie Louisa was the grandmother of Jacqueline Baker Humphrey.

The purpose of this paper is to verify and document the handwriting on the back of the old photograph of William Collins (b.1798, Springfield, Mass; d. March 7, 1866, Brooklyn, NY). In accordance with the request of Jacqueline B. Humphrey, I have asked that this statement be notarized.

His lecturing seemed to have been at cost, and it is difficult to imagine writing and editing producing anything other than a piddling amount of ıey, if that. He belonged to many clubs (Vereine). As well, he was a itary chaplain after the Civil War. From these, he may have received ıe income by providing ministerial services. However, there is a more ·resting possibility.

Kleindeutschland was a more secular than religious community with a ʒe part of its people completely unaffiliated with any of its churches. I gest that many of these unaffiliated, though not religious, still wished a community minister to preside at those important life-changing events h as marriage, birth and death. A minister not part of an established ırch would come without unwanted ties and, probably seem, for those ›ple, a natural choice. Foersch, an unaffiliated minister, as well as a ›minent supporter of the working classes and important Vereine member uld have been an attractive choice.

Perhaps the primary source of Foersch's income came from providing ·h services; if so, he would not have been the only such case.[16] The nographics would have helped: during Foersch's time, Kleindeutsch-ıd's population consistently grew. An occasional advertisement was ınd showing that, at times, he did, indeed, actively offer his services her ministers also advertised). Foersch also, eventually, became a notary d advertised that service as well.

If Rev. Foersch had recorded his work in registers, and the registers had rvived, I would not have to speculate. In that case, if I am correct, we ›uld have had a part of the community, perhaps substantial,[17] not to be ınd in church records. But. . . .

However he earned a living, it appeared to be a modest one. I did not ıd a will for him nor did I find a record of Administration (if he died testate).

St. Matthew's Evangelical Lutheran church is the oldest Lutheran church in America. Organized in 1664 in the small city of New York, then hugging the southern tip of Manhattan Island, it continues yet today, but in Bronx County.

F.W. Geissenhainer, Sr. was its pastor from 1823 until his death in 1838. At the time, the church held services in both English and German. English services were conducted by his son while German services were tended to by C.F.E. Stohlmann. Rev. Stohlmann was appointed the new pastor (see that minister for further information).

This period was early in what would become the first great wave of 19th century immigration—primarily Irish and German. The growing immigration prompted the church in 1840 to abandon English-language services. Rev. Geissenhainer and the English-speaking members of the congregation separated into a new church (several other churches also began within St. Matthew's.)

Rev. Geissenhainer officially left St. Matthew's on May 1, 1840. The [illegible] A. Inventory (see the Reference section) indicated that when he left he took the registers with him, turned a page, and continued writing. They met [illegible] Thompson Street. would then have been in the bishop's interest to have strong Catholic ort and solidarity. The marriage, in a small way, demonstrated his rship of and interest in a segment (German) of the Catholic community ly separated, and one in which he, as bishop, had showed little or faint est. Perhaps he thought that it would elicit additional support in the ent troubles.

y 1840-41, anti-Catholicism and fear of the growing immigration were ading, sometimes leading to violence. These were not separate, as the igrants, predominately Irish and German, were mostly Catholic. vism, a Protestant movement with old and deeply anti-Catholic roots, growing into a national political force. Other factors such as a kened economy were helping to draw supporters to Nativism. Irish and mans, having the difficulty of different languages and customs, were not essarily united against the threat or, for that matter, even friendly (in ryland the year before a riot between them was only ended when troops d into the brawling melee).

In New York City a serious Protestant-Catholic clash came over the olic school system.[18] The state supported system used written materials t reflected a Protestant bias, a matter school authorities showed little erest in correcting. Bishop Hughes, "a vigorous, stormy individual, werful in leadership and indefatigable in contest. . . . ,"[19] petitioned the w York City Common Council for public monies to establish separate tholic schools. There was much public debate, often acrimonious. In cember "while the report [the decision] of the council was being xiously awaited, rioting and disorder between the rival factions rotestant and Catholic]" broke out.[20] It was in this environment that the ouple were married.

Catholic unity may have been on Bishop Hughes' mind as he blessed the ouple whose language he probably could not speak.

K) – Krause, L.F. (Lutheran)

From time to time, Rev. Krause, a Buffalo pastor, would return to his ative land. He would probably begin the Buffalo to New York City leg of he trip by boarding a boat on the Erie Canal.

After arrival in New York City, he would make his way to the sister hurch, Trinity Lutheran. Perhaps, he had written them giving an expected ate of arrival.

Re: Lot 1934 Section 67
Lot 15984 Section 164
Lot 31277 Section 196

Dear Ms. Humphrey:

Thank you for your check in the amount of $25 which was included with your letter of September 29, 1998. We have checked computerized, alphabetical burial records. The remains of William T. Collins who died January 23, 1901 were interred in Lot 1934 January 26, 1901. Also interred in Lot 1934, among others, are Jeannette F.L. Collins interred February 26, 1879, Lucinda A. Collins interred September 6, 1848, and William Collins interred March 11, 1866. Lot 1934 was purchased August 19, 1847 by William Menck who conveyed one-half to Gertrude Vulter. Vultee The Executors of the Estate of said William Menck conveyed his interest to Robert Miller.

Lot 15984 was purchased July 3, 1865 by William H. Bow. The remains of a Philip Gaylor and Hiram Gaylor were interred in the lot July 8, 1865. The interment records do not indicate that these were a removal from Albany. The remains of Sally Gaylor were interred in the lot July 20, 1865. The remains of Margaret Gaylor/Gaylord do not rest in this lot or elsewhere in Green-Wood. We confirm that the remains of eleven persons rest in the lot.

The remains of John F. Mayo were interred in Lot 31277 on June 5, 1913. Lot 31277 was purchased November 14, 1902 by said John F. Mayo.

Should you wish to receive a burial transcript of the vital statistics for any person, there is a charge of $17 per name for that information. The information you would receive is as shown on the enclosed Schedule of Charges. We herewith return your $25 check.

Very truly yours,

Hi,
Here's what I have:

1. Oliver Mayo7 (Thomas6, Thomas5, Samuel4, Samuel3, Nathaniel2, Rev. John1): was born July 5, 1793 in Chatham, MA. He married Roxanna Case Oct. 2, 1815. He died Sept. of 1836 at age 43 years, Roxanna Case was born Aug. 28, 1793, d/o Gillum Case and Esther Hand. She died Feb. 17, 1863 at age 69 years. The cemetery record says year was 1861 at age 70 years. Known children of Oliver Mayo7 and Roxanna Case were:

Esther b 1755 d/o Jacob Hand Abigail Conkling b 1737 East Hampton NY

a. Oliver Case Mayo: b. Jan. 14, 1817; d. 1849; was killed by Indians. odd that time frame – where? In west?

b. Caroline C. Mayo: b. Jan. 26, 1819; m. Thomas P. Ripley June 4, 1845 in New York City, N.Y.; d. Nov. of 1852 atage 33 years. Thomas P. Ripley was b. Apr. 8, 1821, s/o Thomas Ripley and Elizabeth Darling. Thomas d. June 10, 1886 at age 67 years.

Could they have divorced ??

c. Thomas Mayo: b. Feb. 4, 1822; d. Feb. 24, 1824 at age 2 years. *

I have no further information concerning the children named above. The original source for the above information for the most part is: " Historical Papers on Shelter Island and its Presbyterian Church " by Jacob Edward Mallmann, pub. in N.Y. in 1899. I don't see any mention of New Orleans, LA. for the above Oliver Mayo7, but the dates for him match up with your information.

Thos P. Ripley d 14 Apr 1849 79y of Sag Harbor

2. Thomas Mayo6 (Thomas5, Samuel4, Samuel3, Nathaniel2, Rev. John1): was born Apr. 18, 1751 in Harwich, MA. He married Mary Arey before July 7, 1776 in Eastham, MA. He died June 3, 1818 in Shelter Island, Suffolk Co., N.Y. at age 67 years. He was in Chatham, MA. during the 1790 Census. He was in Shelter Island, N.Y. during the 1800 Census. Mary Arey was born ca. 1759. She died Mar. 20, 1841 in Shelter Island. Known children of Thomas Mayo6 and Mary Arey, all born in Chatham, MA., were:

a. Phebe: b. Jan. 24, 1779.
b. Isaac: b. Mar. 18, 1781; m. Keziah King.
c. Mary: b. Mar. 23, 1783; bapt. June 15, 1783 in Eastham, MA.; m. David Havens Aug. 2, 1801. She was a.k.a. Polly.

EAGLE OFFICE, 2 1-2 P. M.

The steamer St. David, Captain Aird, from Glasgow, arrived here yesterday, and will sail for New York after discharging.

MYSTERY AND CRIME.

Probable Murder and Heavy Robbery in the Eastern District—The Victim Struck Down in his own Store—The Case Enveloped in Mystery.

Another terrible crime, under the most daring and mysterious circumstances, was committed in Fourth street, E. D., on Saturday afternoon, which will probably result in the death of an aged and respectable citizen, who was also robbed of a large amount of property. The circumstances of the affair, as far as can be ascertained, appear to be about as follows:

On Saturday evening, about six o'clock, a gentleman, named Graham, residing at No. 301 South Third street, E.D, was passing along Fourth street, and arriving at No. 98, occupied by Mr. William Collins, a jeweler and watchmaker, he glanced through the front window and saw the proprietor sitting in a chair, apparently asleep. Being acquainted with him, Mr. Graham stepped into store, when he was horrified to discover Mr. Collins insensible, and bleeding profusely from both mouth and ears. At that instant another man, a stranger, came in, saying that he had left a watch there to be repaired, which he desired to take away. After selecting the watch, he departed.

Mr. Graham immediately summoned medical assistance, and the physician, Dr. Perry, at first believed the proprietor was suffering under an attack of hemorrhage of the lungs. In endeavoring to place Mr. Collins in an easier position in the chair, the unfortunate gentleman's head sank to the counter, and he was heard to exclaim, "What are you going to do with me? won't some one protect me?" and from this it was judged that the man had been attacked by some would be assassin, as was made evident on subsequent examination. A carriage was shortly afterwards procured, and the injured man conveyed to his residence, 168 Washington st, W. D. He remained insensible until about 4 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was able to tell the following story, which will tend to throw more light on the mysterious affair, and may serve to bring the guilty party or parties to justice.

Early in the afternoon in question, Mr. Collins noticed a tall man acting in a very suspicious manner about his store and not liking his appearance, he detetermined to watch him. The stranger soon perceived that he was watched by the proprietor of the store, and evidently desiring to allay any suspicion, he boldly entered, and asked to have a breast-pin slightly repaired. The work was done in a few minutes, and the suspicious customer tendered a $2 bill in payment. The sum required was but a small one, and Mr. Collins not having any change convenient, very imprudently left his store for the purpose of getting the bill changed. He states that he remembers clearly to having secured the change, and just reached his store, but after that all was blank.

The sufferer after relating the foregoing circumstances, immediately relapsed into insensibility, and up to noon to-day, had not regained consciousness. He was attended by Drs. Johnson and McMullen, who in examining their patient, discovered a contusion behind his right ear, which was doubtlessly caused by a blow from some instrument in the hands of his assailant. This contusion or swelling, disappeared soon afterwards, when one of his eyes became suffused with blood, which also flowed from his mouth and ears. Under the eye was a swelling, which has not yet subsided. It is the general opinion that the man cannot recover.

The inference drawn from the statement of the victim would be likely, that after he had left his store for the purpose of procuring change, the stranger made preparations to receive him, and on his entry struck him the blow which will probably terminate his life. After placing Mr. Collins in the chair, in which he was found, the other proceed to ransack the store of whatever of its contents seemed most valuable.

Many think that the assailant and robber had been concealed in the store, and was a "pal" of the stranger, who assisted him to remove the property from the place. It is impossible, however, to arrive at any conclusion, as this part of the crime appears to be enveloped in mystery.

Mr. Collins was robbed of a pocketbook containing about $25 in money, and on subsequent examination it was discovered that no less than twenty-three watches were missing from the store. The most of these belonged to different parties who had left them there for repairs, and their total value is as yet unknown.

Case Enveloped in Mystery.

The circumstances of the affair, as far as can be ascertained, appear to be about as follows:

On Saturday evening, about six o'clock, a gentleman, named Graham, residing at No. 301 South Third street, E.D, was passing along Fourth street, and arriving at No. 98, occupied by Mr. William Collins, a jeweler and watchmaker, he glanced through the front window and saw the proprietor sitting in a chair, apparently asleep. Being acquainted with him, Mr. Graham stepped into store, when he was horrified to discover Mr. Collins insensible, and bleeding profusely from both mouth and ears. At that instant another man, a stranger, came in, saying that he had left a watch there to be repaired, which he desired to take away. After selecting the watch, he departed.

Mr. Graham immediately summoned medical assistance, and the physician, Dr. Perry, at first believed the proprietor was suffering under an attack of hemorrhage of the lungs. In endeavoring to place Mr. Collins in an easier position in the chair, the unfortunate gentleman's head sank to the counter, and he was heard to exclaim, "What are you going to do with me? won't some one protect me?" and from this it was judged that the man had been attacked by some would be assassin, as was made evident on subsequent examination. A carriage was shortly afterwards procured, and the injured man conveyed to his residence, 168 Washington st, W. D. He remained insensible until about 4 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was able to tell the following story, which will tend to throw more light on the mysterious affair, and may serve to bring the guilty party or parties to justice.

Early in the afternoon in question, Mr. Collins noticed a tall man acting in a very suspicious manner about his store and not liking his appearance, he detetermined to watch him. The stranger soon perceived that he was watched by the proprietor of the store, and evidently desiring to allay any suspicion, he boldly entered, and asked to have a breast-pin slightly repaired. The work was done in a few minutes, and the suspicious customer tendered a $2 bill in payment. The sum required was but a small one, and Mr. Collins not having any change convenient, very imprudently left his store for the purpose of getting the bill changed. He states that he remembers clearly to having secured the change, and just reached his store, but after that all was blank.

The sufferer after relating the foregoing circumstances, immediately relapsed into insensibility, and up to noon to-day, had not regained consciousness. He was attended by Drs. Johnson and McMullen, who in examining their patient, discovered a contusion behind his right ear, which was doubtlessly caused by a blow from some instrument in the hands of his assailant. This contusion or swelling, disappeared soon afterwards, when one of his eyes became suffused with blood, which also flowed from his mouth and ears. Under the eye was a swelling, which has not yet subsided. It is the general opinion that the man cannot recover.

The inference drawn from the statement of the victim would be likely, that after he had left his store for the purpose of procuring change, the stranger made preparations to receive him, and on his entry struck him the blow which will probably terminate his life. After placing Mr. Collins in the chair, in which he was found, the other proceed to ransack the store of whatever of its contents seemed most valuable.

Many think that the assailant and robber had been concealed in the store, and was a "pal" of the stranger, who assisted him to remove the property from the place. It is impossible, however, to arrive at any conclusion, as this part of the crime appears to be enveloped in mystery.

Mr. Collins was robbed of a pocketbook containing about $25 in money, and on subsequent examination it was discovered that no less than twenty-three watches were missing from the store. The most of these belonged to different parties who had left them there for repairs, and their total value is as yet unknown.

The police of the 45th precinct were notified of the affair, and although unable to arrive at anything conclusive, it is the general opinion prevailing among them that the robbery was committed after Mr. Collin's condition was discovered, by outsiders. Others are of the opinion, that the man who went into the store and removed a watch which he claimed as his own, is in some way connected with the affair. The police of the 45th precinct, assisted by several experienced detectives, are busily engaged in "working up" the case, but so far have met with no success.

The affair created the most intense excitement in the neighborhood and the residents of the Eastern District have just cause for fear when such a crime can be committed in their midst, in open daylight, and the author escape unpunished.

It will be almost a miracle should Mr. Collins recover, for since he was struck down he has lost a great quantity of blood, and being now also insensible, has been reduced to an incredible state of weakness. He is quite advanced in years, being in his 68th year, and has a wife and three children, who are plunged into grief by this unforseen calamity. They have the heart felt sympathies of their neighbors, who earnestly hope that the mystery encircling this dastarldy work may be dispelled, and the guilty ones brought to the bar of justice.

The Firemens' demonstration in this city yesterday was one of the finest that ever took place.

The engines were beautifully and tastefully decorated and the firemen presented a very manly appearance. The demonstration was passed off very pleasantly with the exception of the temporary arrest by the military authorities of the band of music accompanying Engine Co. No. 13, for playing the "Bonnie Blue Flag," "Dixie" and other Southern airs.

The steamer Mary Hein, from Shreveport for New Orleans, was burned on the 28th ult. in the Red River, with 600 bales of cotton. One Federal soldier on board was lost.

The schooner Small, from Havana for New Orleans, put into Cedar Keys leaking badly, with sails split and spars carried away. The vessel was condemned.

THE WILLIAMSBURGH MYSTERY.

Mr. Collins Still in a Critical Condition —No New Developments.

The mystery attendant with the attempted murder of Mr. William Collins, in his store, No. 98 4th st, E. D, on Saturday afternoon last, still remains uncleared, and the condition of that gentleman has undergone no material change for the better. He is very delirious, and occasionally starts up with exclamations which establish without hardly a vestige of doubt, the fact that he has been made the victim of a would-be assassin and robber. Yesterday afternoon, during his delirium, he made frequent allusions to the occurrence, and was once heard to say, by several members of the family, "that was a heavy blow," after which he cried out for help. It seems almost impossible that he can recover, but there is an old saying, "while there is life there is hope."

The police are earnestly engaged in endeavoring to penetrate this mystery, but have not, as yet, gained any certain clue which will be likely to lead to the arrest of the guilty parties. Several parties, who have been losers by the robbery, called at the 45th Precinct station house, this morning, and registered their names, and others will do well to follow their example, so that it may be ascertained how many watches were stolen, as the police are not willing to believe that twenty-three are missing.

In relation to the affair, Mr. John Doerr, a segar manufacturer, doing business next door to Mr. Collins' place, has made a statement to the following effect: On Saturday afternoon Mr. Collins came into his store to get a bill changed, and this having been done, he returned to his shop and was not seen by the segar maker until Mr. Graham, who discovered the watchmaker's condition, notified him. Doerr went into Collins' shop, and found that gentleman sitting in a chair, with his head thrown back, and the blood flowing from his mouth. He was muttering, but while Doerr was present he was heard to say "On, my head." The segarmaker plainly saw a large blood stain behind his right ear, his hair in the vicinity being also saturated, but no other marks, which would indicate that violence had been used, about his head or face. He saw no persons lingering about the premises on the afternoon in question, nor heard any unusual noise in the store. Should the injured man sufficiently recover, he will doubtlessly be able to give a statement, which will tend to somewhat dispel the mystery attendant with the atrocious attempt at murder.

Another Murder.

While people were discussing with some anxiety the discouraging result of the efforts thus far to bring the Spanish murderers to justice, and the terrible tragedy in the City Park was still fresh in their memory, Williamsburgh has furnished the public with a new horror,—a murder and robbery under circumstances which cast the daring of the Otero crime completely in the shade. Such particulars as have transpired in relation to the case, were published in the EAGLE on Monday,—to-day we have the announcement of the death of the victim. Briefly told the story, is as follows: Mr. Collins, a jeweller, doing business in Fourth street, Williamsburgh, one of the leading throughfares of that section of the city, was found in an insensible condition in his store, about six o'clock on Saturday evening. He was supposed to be in a fit, was conveyed to his residence, and a medical attendant summoned, who did not discover any evidence of violence. When Mr. Collins had somewhat revived, he gave an incoherent account of a man coming into his store on a pretence of business,—of mysterious conduct on the part of the stranger, and then Mr. Collins loses his consciousness, and knows no more. Mr. Collins lived until this morning in a state of semi-insensibility; occasionally as his mind wandered back to the scene in his shop, he let fall such expressions as "What are you going to do with me?"—"will nobody help me?"—"that was a heavy blow," &c. Suspicion of the truth slowly dawned upon the minds of Mr. Collins' attendants; the store was examined, and a number of watches and other valuables found missing. The sypmtoms of the injured man were such as might be caused by a heavy blow on the head, producing concussion of the brain.

~~credit union compounded monthly, n/g.~~

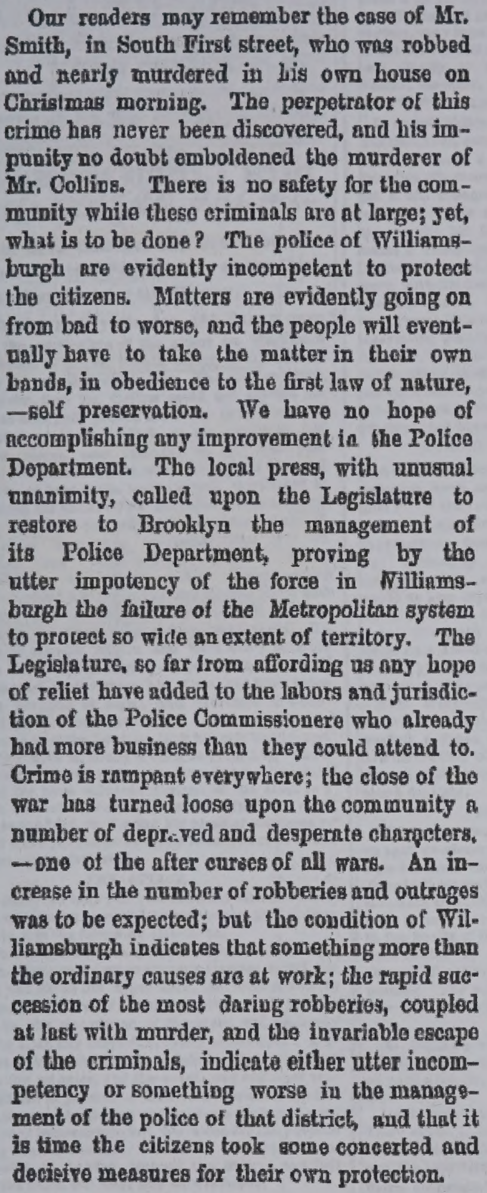
From these facts it is pretty clear that some person entered Mr. Collins' store in broad daylight, watching the opportunity when he was alone, and stunning him with a blow, robbed the store and walked out undetected. The details of this crime have come out so gradually, that the community may be less startled than they were by the Otero murder, which flashed its full horrors upon us all at once; yet this last murder is more terrible and alarming as an evidence of our insecurity than the other was. That a stranger might be taken, on a dark night, to a secluded spot, even in the heart of the city, and be murdered in cold blood, was startling enough; but when a citizen is struck down in broad daylight, in his own store, on a thoroughfare through which people are constantly passing, is an occurrence that makes every man tremble for his own safety. This murder is the culmination of a long series of crimes and outrages in Williamsburgh. That section of our city seems to be given over to the mercies of a desperate gang of thieves and cut-throats. Robberies and outrages have been of nightly occurrence, and the police seem to be utterly powerless to afford any protection whatever, or to discover, in a single instance, the perpetrators of these crimes. California, in its worst days, was a preferable place to live in, for there every man was armed and on his guard. Here the people trust to the police, and are robbed and murdered in their own houses, and the perpetrators go undetected.

add car & furniture



Our readers may remember the case of Mr. Smith, in South First street, who was robbed and nearly murdered in his own house on Christmas morning. The perpetrator of this crime has never been discovered, and his impunity no doubt emboldened the murderer of Mr. Collins. There is no safety for the community while these criminals are at large; yet, what is to be done? The police of Williamsburgh are evidently incompetent to protect the citizens. Matters are evidently going on from bad to worse, and the people will eventually have to take the matter in their own hands, in obedience to the first law of nature, —self preservation. We have no hope of accomplishing any improvement in the Police Department. The local press, with unusual unanimity, called upon the Legislature to restore to Brooklyn the management of its Police Department, proving by the utter impotency of the force in Williamsburgh the failure of the Metropolitan system to protect so wide an extent of territory. The Legislature, so far from affording us any hope of relief have added to the labors and jurisdiction of the Police Commissioners who already had more business than they could attend to. Crime is rampant everywhere; the close of the war has turned loose upon the community a number of depraved and desperate characters, —one of the after curses of all wars. An increase in the number of robberies and outrages was to be expected; but the condition of Williamsburgh indicates that something more than the ordinary causes are at work; the rapid succession of the most daring robberies, coupled at last with murder, and the invariable escape of the criminals, indicate either utter incompetency or something worse in the management of the police of that district, and that it is time the citizens took some concerted and decisive measures for their own protection.

THE WILLIAMSBURGH MYSTERY A MURDER.

MARCH 7 1866 V26 #56

Death of Mr. Collins, the Jeweller Attacked—Latest Particulars of the Case—Another Murder for Money.

On Monday and yesterday, the EAGLE gave its readers the particulars of the attack on Mr. James Collins, jeweler, of No. 98 Fourth street, E. D., with all the facts in the case then obtainable. The opinion which was also given, that Mr. Collins could not survive his injuries, has unhappily proved true. Mr. Collins expired this morning at three o'clock, at his residence, 169 Washington street, near Concord, in the 68th year of his age. He died from the effect of a blow received on cerebrum or base of the brain, which is believed to have fractured his skull. The deceased leaves a widow and three children; the eldest, a daughter, about 15 months since lost her husband, who was in the army, and this second sudden affliction comes to her with overpowering force. Mr. Collins has resided in the Fourth Ward and its vicinity for over 19 years, and has been engaged in business in the Eastern District for over 9 years. He was a man of regular habits, and used every possible caution to avoid being robbed or personally attacked. Within the past three years his store had been twice entered by burglars at night, and valuables to a considerable amount carried off.

The second time the burglars took his safe bodily, and after leaving with it, broke it open and rifled it. Since that time Mr. Collins had been in the habit of nightly depositing the most valuable portion of his stock in a safe set in the wall of a store a few doors from his own. He also was prudent on leaving his place of business to wait until some person came along with whom he could walk to the cars unmolested.

THE ATTACK

upon the deceased took place on Saturday afternoon last, and soon after being removed to his house Mr. Collins was able to give the following statement:

Early in the afternoon in question, Mr. Collins noticed a tall man acting in a very suspicious manner about his store and not liking his appearance, he determined to watch him. The stranger soon perceived that he was watched by the proprietor of the store, and evidently desiring to allay any suspicion, boldly entered, and asked to have a breastpin slightly mended. The work was done in a few minutes, and the suspicious customer tendered a $2 bill in payment. The sum required was but a small one, and Mr. Collins not having any change convenient, very imprudently left his store for the purpose of having the bill changed. He states that he remembers clearly to having secured the change, and just reached the store, but after this all was blank.

ANOTHER STATEMENT.

In corroboration of the above Mr John Doerr, a cigar manufacturer, doing business next door to Mr. Collins' place, has made a statement to the following effect: On Saturday afternoon Mr. Collins came into his store to get a bill changed, and this having been done, he returned to his shop and was not seen by the cigar maker until Mr. Graham, who discovered the watchmaker's condition, notified him. Doerr went into Collins' shop, and found that gentleman sitting in a chair, with his head thrown back, and the blood flowing from his mouth. He was muttering, but while Doerr was present he was heard to say, "Oh, my head." The segarmaker plainly saw a large blood stain behind his right ear, his hair in the vicinity being also saturated, but no other marks, which would indicate that violence had been used, about his head or face. He saw no persons lingering about the premises on the afternoon in question, nor heard any unusual noise in the store.

The sum required was but a small one, and Mr. Collins not having any change convenient, very imprudently left his store for the purpose of having the bill changed. ANOTHER STATEMENT.

In corroboration of the above Mr John Doerr, a cigar manufacturer, doing business next door to Mr. Collins' place, has made a statement to the following effect: On Saturday afternoon Mr. Collins came into his store to get a bill changed, and this having been done, he returned to his shop and was not seen by the cigar maker until Mr. Graham, who discovered the watchmaker's condition, notified him. Doerr went into Collins' shop, and found that gentleman sitting in a chair, with his head thrown back, and the blood flowing from his mouth. He saw no persons lingering about the premises on the afternoon in question, nor heard any unusual noise in the store.

DURING HIS CONSCIOUS MOMENTS

he was heard to mutter, with a shudder, as if in fear of suffering, such sentences as "Have they caught the thief?" "Who will protect me?" "Don't come near me!" etc., all inicating that his mind retained its last impressions before receiving the fatal blow. He constantly motioned all persons from his bedside, as if apprehensive that they would do him injury. His lucid moments were brief, when he would relapse into a stupid or unconscious state. His death is beyond all doubt the result of violence, considered necessarily by some bold thief who had entered his shop for the purposes of larceny. The very bolness of the operation is its best protection. 4th st. is a main thoroughfare of the Eastern District, and no matter how quickly the villian or villians might have worked, a dozen persons would probably pass the window before they could secure an exit, but no one would suspect that murder was being done there, and in broad daylight.

THE BOOTY SECURED.

The person who committed this wanton murder upon an aged unoffensive gentleman, secured from his pocket a pocket book containing, as is supposed, about $25. Twenty-three watches belonging to customers and on sale were also taken. The numbers of these watches were recorded in the store books and are now in the hands of the police, so that if the cases have not been melted up and the works destroyed, there is a chance of getting a clue to the perpetrators by the watches. The police and detective force of this city and New York are doing all they can.

WHO IS HE?

Mr. Collins is supposed to have received his wounds about half-past four to five o'clock; he was not discovered until near six, and under the following circumstances:

A gentleman named Graham, residing at No. 301 South Third street, E. D., was passing along Fourth street, and arriving at No. 98, he glanced through the window and saw the proprietor sitting in a chair, apparently asleep. Being acquainted with him, Mr. Graham stepped into his store, when he was horrified to discover Mr. Collins insensible, and bleeding profusely from both mouth and ears. At that instant another man, a stranger, came in saying that he had left a watch there to be repaired, which he desired to take away. After selecting the watch, he departed. In his startled condition Mr. Graham did not stop to consider the fact that it was rather an unusual thing for a person to claim a watch and help himself to it. Now that the result of the affair is death it would be well for the very handy individual to come forward and explain his action in the matter.

The whole affair is full of mystery. No arrests have been made, no one one is fairly suspected, and some even think the man may have died in a fit. A post mortem examination will be made on the body this afternoon, by Dr. Willetts, and the inquest will be commenced before Coroner Lynch on Friday.

> "He [the President] considered that he was understood by all except such as were determined to misunderstand him. He desired to restore the Union in fact, as it already was in theory, and to secure to all the States, North and South, every constitutional right they were entitled to; but he was now met by men who were iconoclasts, who opposed all his plans of reconstruction and never submitted any of their own. "Why," said he, Congress has now been in session nearly four months and what has it done? What is its policy? Can any one answer? It seems to me apparent that it has none. It puts itself in the position of cavilling at all propositions from any one else, and of failing to originate any of its own. It is doing nothing whatever in the work of reconstruction. Texas is at this instant organizing a State government of its own. If Congress is opposed to my plan of reconstruction, and believes this State not only out of the Union, but its citizens not in a condition to exercise the right of self-government, why does it not depose the Provisional Governor, oust the officers elected by the people, and impose some other and better form of government? Why does Congress adhere to this dog-in-the-manger policy of refusing to recognize the only government the State has, and yet declining to give a better one?"

If the radicals find any consolation in this, they are welcome to it.

Lighting the Streets.

The question of lighting the streets is now before the Common Council. There is a general desire that the street lamps should be lighted all night and every night the year round. As the weather is not under municipal control, it is impossible to time the lighting of the streets so as to afford light at all times when wanted. The moon, when expected to furnish illumination enough, is often overcast and leaves us in darkness. Light is a protection as well as a convenience, and the cheapest protection we can get. The expediency of lighting the streets all night being conceded, there is but one obstacle in the way of carrying out the proposition, and that is the want of money; the appropriation for lighting the streets for the current year was based on the estimates for partial lighting only, and has furthermore been reduced by the overdrawing of the account last year. The only recourse is an application to the Legislature for special authority to borrow money for the purpose. The discussion of this subject has brought forth a proposition that the expense of lighting the streets should be assessed in the same manner as the expense for cleaning the streets,—that is each ward pay for its own lighting. This plan is urged upon the ground that in some wards there are many more lamps than in others; but this is a very narrow view of the

THE GAS COMPANIES.

What the Gas Consumers Require of Them,

ANOTHER MEETING LAST NIGHT.

Enormous Income of Gas Companies in this State—Its Estimated Reduction by Means of the Projected Law—Severe Strictures on the Citizens' Gas Light Company—Formation of a Gas Consumers' Protective Association.

Another influential meeting of citizens interested in the passage of an act "for regulating gas companies," now before the Judiciary Committee of the State Legislature, was held last evening in the lecture room of the Brooklyn Institute, William C. Heaton in the chair, and William G. Boggs, Secretary. Minutes of previous meeting were read and approved, after which,

Mr. W. L. Barnes came forward and briefly recapitulated the facts in connection with the subject under discussion made at last Monday's meeting. He said that the chief object sought to be attained was the absolute accountability of these gas companies to the public, from whom they obtained their privileges. It was to secure that point that they sought to establish this particular legislation, and he believed it could not be secured in any other manner, the temptation to make money and secure large dividends being so great. A bill has been drawn up and submitted to the Legislature, which compells all the gas companies of the State to come under the provisions of the general law. The companies specially chartered are only four in number; the rest numbering over a hundred are already organized under the general law. The four exceptions, however, happen to be the Manhattan Gas Company, the old New York Gas Company, the old Brooklyn Gas Company, and the Albany Gas Company. At this very moment, the Citizens' Gas Company of South Brooklyn are petitioning the Legislature for permission to increase their capital stock of $1,000,000 another million. When that has been secured, a portion of the stock will be offered according to certain forms of law; the stockholders of the company will, however, have the privilege of taking it first, and if not all thus taken, outsiders will then have the privilege of taking it. The result is, that this entire increase of stock on the part of the "Citizens" Company will be made up not of the profits of that business from time to time, as is generally believed. But whether it be so or not is not the question. These companies should be held accountable to the public, and the public have the right to know that their administration of affairs is just and honest. The speaker had conferred with men competent to give an opinion on the subject, and had been assured that gas stock would be readily taken under all the limitations of the proposed law. He read from the provisions of the act to incorporate the New York Mutual Gas Light Company, (January 26th, 1866.) Sec. 4 of which reads as follows:

Sec. 4. Whenever the profits which shall be earned by said company, after deducting all expenses and all necessary outlays for labor and material used in carry-

THE COLLINS MURDER.

At the time of going to press yesterday the Coroner's inquest in the case of William Collins, murdered at his store or shop, No. 98 Fourth street, E. D., was still in session. The remaining evidence brought out yesterday afternoon is given below.

William T. Collins, continued—My father recognized me on Sunday, not before; I think the things he said were said understandingly; he died on Wednesday, 7th inst., at 8 A. M.; I conversed with him Monday; he did not know how he was injured, but appeared to be rational; I tried to find out how he got hurt, but could not; the watches that were in the store are gone; I believe there were two gold watches there; my sister brought away what was brought from the store; I know he had some watches of his own, but cannot tell how many; on Sunday he asked me if I had the watches, and if the robbers had been caught; I told him they were all safe, but I knew they were not; my father used to put down the numbers of watches brought in to be repaired; I did not examine the carpet bag after it was brought to the house; he said he had lost his pocket book; he could not tell me how much it contained, but somewhere near 50 or 60 dollars; he spoke of his pocket book of his own accord; he said it was taken from his pocket; this was before he asked me about the watches; he asked if his money was safe; I told him it was gone.

Gideon B. Perry, M. D., sworn, says—I am a physician; reside at 92 4th street, E. D.; I saw Mr. Collins about 6 o'clock of the day in question; I was called to attend him; he was sitting in an arm chair, unable to hold up his head, groaning and occasionally exclaiming "Oh! dear." Blood was oozing from his mouth and right ear; I concluded the man had received an injury resulting in a fracture of the base of the skull; had him removed to a comfortable position; the hemorrhage, which had been extensive, had nearly ceased when I saw him; there was a slight tumefaction behind the right year and a black and blue spot over the left eye; He sat behind the counter, with his back to the door; a small desk was on the end of the counter; I think a club would inflict the injuries appearing on the deceased.

[Dr. Perry here explained to the Jury the situation of the chair, desk, counter, etc., and the manner in which deceased was accustomed to sit.]

William S. Macy, sworn, says—I reside at 95 4th st.; have lived there eleven years; have known Mr. Collins nearly 30 years; about 6 o'clock Saturday evening, March 8, I was sitting in my back room: some one came to the door and said Mr. Collins had had a fit: I went over and found him lying on the lounge, and quite a number of persons outside, and Capt. Woglom and a police officer inside: he was groaning: in a few minutes he said "where is my pocket book?" that was the first I knew of his being robbed; they found his pocket book was gone: I procured water and washed his head as well as could: he did not know me at that time, nor do I think he knew anybody else: his son put on his overcoat, and helped him into a carriage to be taken home: Tuesday I went to see him at about 11 o'clock: he was then entirely insensible: did not know any one: his right eye was open, his left eye closed, and his mouth open: I thought he was dying then.

When I procured the warm water the blood was running out of his right ear, and I thought he had had a severe blow there; I have been in Mr. Collins' place several times; saw several watches there; he was a very quiet, good-tempered man. The swelling near his ear was black and blue; my first impression was that he had been struck with brass knuckles or something of the sort; the swelling was under and behind the ear; I do not know George Carroll; I have frequently seen Mr. Collins in the position described by Dr. Perry: it would Azeem Jah. The Duke of Somerset—whom the Times regards as the coming man—now fills the sinecure of First Lord of the Admiralty, and in that capacity, for which he is neither fitted by nature, education nor ability, has done more harm to England, and has increase the taxes of the people more, by experiments, than the Indian mutiny or the Russian war. The revolution in ship-building and maritime warfare, which the American war inaugurated, found him totally unprepared and miserably incompetent, and the result was a series of ruinous experiments in the art of ship-building, which increased the burthens of the people, and materially damaged the Duke in public estimation.

And yet these men are expected to work harmoniously with such men as Gladstone, Goschen, Milner Gibson, and Lord Hartington—all liberal minded, able statesmen of the present day! The result is obvious, and a matter of certainty. A reform bill is promised, and the people are anxious to have this bete noir removed. Can it be expected that Mr. Gladstone, who has declared himself explicitly in favor of manhood suffrage, and who is supported by such men as John Stuart Mill and Thomas Hughes, will give his voice for a pusillanimous measure like that Russell may be expected to propose?

The downfall of the present ministry is a matter of two or three months only, if the reform question is forced upon it; and then the door will be open for the admission to power of men who will aid the establishment of freer and more democratic institutions, a wide extension of the voting privilege, and a more permanent basis of representation.

THE DEATH OF A LITTLE GREAT MAN.—The immortal Phipps is no more! The ineffable pearl of privy purses has departed this life, in a halo of glory and gold stick! Phipps est mort; Vive Phipps! Who was Phipps, quotha? Why Phipps was, and is, and will be—for Phipps, like the Emperor of China and Brother of the Sun, is perennial; it is toujours Phipps—the keeper of the Queen of England's purse! Mysterious man! Perpetually in the position of Tom Tidler, of immortal memory, picking up gold and silver. The mighty dam which stayed the floodgates of a Queen's pin-money!

Who his successor may be we wot not; but—even although he may be a Phipps—he cannot approach the glory of his predecessor. We have seen him—this great man, in the days when Queen Victoria did not look quite so much like a very ordinary, frowsy middle-aged lady, nd when the beauty of the Court—beauty and chivalry, hey call it over there—used to visit the opera. Phipps, the great, the immortal, the ineffable, lord of lords, and stick of gold sticks in waiting, used to stand behind his sovereign lady. Red of gills, and stout of waist, gloved with mathematical nicety, and excruciatingly perfumed, the gallant Colonel (to quote from Jenkins) was ever ready to do the bidding of his mistress. Did the embroidered kerchief droop, or the Etruscan fan fall? A thousand pardons! the gallant Phipps was on his knees, picking it up with alacrity—obliged to preserve an angelic countenance, but nevertheless having a fearful pain in the small of the back and flux of blood to the head. Had he been a cynic—which, poor man, he hadn't the brains to be—what opportunities he might have had to watch the hollowness of royalty's life. And her majesty—what of her? She must be in a bad way. So lately to change the keeper of her conscience, and now to loose the guardian of her purse!

THE FENIAN PANIC IN ENGLAND.—The Fenian panic still rages in England. Arrests still continue, and the prophetic words of Stephens, "that the enemy would strike right and left, with blind fury," are being verified. Whole regiments are continually being poured into Ireland, and all day and all night in the towns of the hapless country the rattle of artillery—trains through the streets, are heard. In the pub-

ST. PATRICK'S SOCIETY DINNER.

The annual dinner of St. Patrick's Society will be held this year at Gothic Hall, Adams street. The Academy of Music being engaged for Opera on the 17th, it was found impossibe to secure that building, as was first intended. In view of the prominence of Irish matters at this time and of the fact that the Irish citizens of Brooklyn will have a distinctive celebration this year, the dinner promises to be attended with unusual eclat.

THE COLLINS MURDER.

Funeral of the Victim Yesterday—A Hickory Club Found in the Store where the Murder was Committed.

The remains of Mr. William Collins, who was so brutally attacked and murdered in his own store, No. 98 Fourth street, E. D., by a robber, took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence, No. 168 Washington street, near Concord. After the usual ceremony at the house, the coffin was borne to its last resting place in Greenwood Cemetery, followed by a long procession of friends of the deceased, who, respecting him in life, thus availed themselves of the melancholy occasion to pay the last tribute to his remains. The sympathy of the public was all the keener on account of the sudden and brutal manner in which Mr. Collins lost his life. His age was 68 years. He leaves a widow and three children.

A CLUB DISCOVERED.

On Saturday, in searching the store of the late Mr. Collins critically, a stout hickory club was found under the counter, and is now in the hands of the police. It is not known whether this was the weapon with which Mr. Collins' skull was fractured, but the place in which it was found would hardly justify the belief that the late proprietor kept the stick there to protect himself from assault. Those most familiar with the store do not remember to have seen this formidable weapon before the attack made on the 3d of March. All is still in mystery as to the perpetrator of the robbery and murder. The inquest begins to-day, but it can hardly be expected to throw any light upon this most heinous homicide.

At the time of going to press yesterday the Coroner's inquest in the case of William Collins, murdered at his store or shop, No. 98 Fourth street, E. D., was still in session. The remaining evidence brought out yesterday afternoon is given below.

William T. Collins, continued—My father recognized me on Sunday, not before; I think the things he said were said understandingly; he died on Wednesday, 7th inst , at 8 A. M.; I conversed with him Monday; he did not know how he was injured, but appeared to be rational; I tried to find out how he got hurt, but could not; the watches that were in the store are gone; I believe there were two gold watches there; my sister brought away what was brought from the store; I know he had some watches of his own, but cannot tell how many; on Sunday he asked me if I had the watches, and if the robbers had been caught; I told him they were all safe, but I knew they were not; my father used to put down the numbers of watches brought in to be repaired; I did not examine the carpet bag after it was brought to the house; he said he had lost his pocket book; he could not tell me how much it contained, but somewhere near 50 or 60 dollars; he spoke of his pocket book of his own accord; he said it was taken from his pocket; this was before he asked me about the watches; he asked if his money was safe; I told him it was gone.

Gideon B. Perry, M. D., sworn, says—I am a physician; reside at 92 4th street, E. D.; I saw Mr. Collins about 6 o'clock of the day in question; I was called to attend him; he was sitting in an arm chair, unable to hold up his head, groaning and occasionally exclaiming "Oh! dear." Blood was oozing from his mouth and right ear; I concluded the man had received an injury resulting in a fracture of the base of the skull; had him removed to a comfortable position; the hemorrhage, which had been extensive, had nearly ceased when I saw him; there was a slight tumefaction behind the right year and a black and blue spot over the left eye; He sat behind the counter, with his back to the door; a small desk was on the end of the counter; I think a club would inflict the injuries appearing on the deceased.

He said he knew nothing more after returning to the store with the change; the man had light hair and chin whiskers; he then asked me about his watches; I told him they were all right; he then asked if I found a small carpet bag with 20 dollars in it; he said it was sent to him to purchase spoons for a niece; he spoke to me of this again afterward; am not sure how much he said was in it the last time; on Monday he mentioned the name of George Carroll as knowing more about it; on Tuesday he mentioned the name of George Carroll again; on Monday morning he said to me, "Daughter, that attack was very painful;" father told an officer who came to see him on Sunday that he "had been robbed very heavily again over there;" I am not in the habit of going to my father's store; have not been there for three years; he said he had a dozen watches of his own and eight or nine customers' watches; the last I saw of my father before this occurrence was the evening before; we keep a boarding house; there was a man by the name of Johnson called to see us on Thursday; he said he lived at 47 South 7th street; he used to sleep in a little room off the store; he was there both times before when the store was robbed, and the last time father told him he could not stay any longer; he said he knew more about Mr. Collins' business than any of the family did.

The inquest now stands adjourned till Wednesday at at 1½ p. m., as the attendance of some important witnesses, who were not present yesterday, is required, and the police are endeavoring to make some arrests.

It looks now as if the mystery would be unveiled and the perpetrator of the crime brought to punishment.

Monthly Meeting of the Sabbath School Union.

~~The regular monthly meeting of the Sabbath School Union of this city took place last evening at the South Congregational Church, corner of Court and President streets. The attendance was not very large, probably owing to the fact that there are a great number of protracted meetings being held at this time in various churches. There was a great deal of interest, however, manifested by those present, and the Sabbath School cause seems to be in a thriving condition, judging from the reports from different Schools.~~

~~The President of the Union, Mr. Andrew A. Smith, occupied the chair, and the Secretary, Mr. Joseph M. Morrie, was present.~~

~~The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Gallagher, after which the President read a portion of Scripture from the 1st chapter of John, and made a few remarks concerning it.~~

~~The Rev. Dr. Taylor, pastor of the church in which the meeting was held, then gave some account of the condition of the Sabbath School attached to his church, which is in a flourishing condition. During the past week ten persons had called on him to converse~~ concerning religious matters, and most of the ten were members of the Sabbath School, one cause of the prosperity of which was owing to the fact that it received hearty support from the congregation. They had greater hopes still for the future.

William S. Macy, sworn, says—I reside at 95 4th st.; have lived there eleven years; have known Mr. Collins nearly 80 years: about 6 o'clock Saturday evening, March 3, I was sitting in my back room: some one came to the door and said Mr. Collins had had a fit: I went over and found him lying on the lounge, and quite a number of persons outside, and Capt. Woglom and a police officer inside: he was groaning: in a few minutes he said "where is my pocket book?" that was the first I knew of his being robbed; they found his pocket book was gone: I procured water and washed his head as well as could: he did not know me at that time, nor do I think he knew anybody else: his son put on his overcoat, and helped him into a carriage to be taken home: Tuesday I went to see him at about 11 o'clock: he was then entirely insensible: did not know any one: his right eye was open, his left eye closed, and his mouth open: I thought he was dying then.

When I procured the warm water the blood was running out of his right ear, and I thought he had had a severe blow there; I have been in Mr. Collins' place several times; saw several watches there; he was a very quiet, good-tempered man. The swelling near his ear was black and blue; my first impression was that he had been struck with brass knuckles or something of the sort; the swelling was under and behind the ear; I do not know George Carroll; I have frequently seen Mr. Collins in the position described by Dr. Perry; it would be easy to strike him with a club or slung-shot from the front of the counter.

Jeanetta A. Blakely, sworn, says: I am a daughter of William Collins, deceased.

At about 7 o'clock Saturday evening, March 3d, we received a telegram that father was in a dying condition; I started as soon as I could put on my things; I found there a policeman and several strangers, and my father lying on the lounge; I told him who I was, but he did not know me; he said. "You are not my daughter." I told him I came to take him home; he said, "What for?" I replied, "Because you are sick." I thought the gentlemen present were after their watches and told them they had better wait; some one said there was a policeman in charge and nothing will be disturbed; I then went into the shop; there were no watches in the window; there was considerable loose jewelry lying around, and one very old watch; I picked up the jewelry and put it in an old carpet bag, to take home, thinking he would be conscious enough to tell who it belonged to; did not take the old watch; I found a bag with $15 in it under the window; he asked me if I knew where his pocket book was; when he was taken home he was unconscious, and so remained till 4 or 5 o'clock Sunday morning; then he knew and recognized me, and called me by name; he wished to know what had happened and how he came there; I told him; I asked him if there was a pedlar in his store that afternoon, he said, "No." I asked him if there was any pedlar that bought goods of him; he said, "No, except Mr. Gray; but Mr. Gray would not strike me—he is a gentleman."

I asked Mr. Collins if he could tell anything about the affair; he said he could not; there were no watches to be found on the premises: I have ascertained that he was in the habit of depositing his watches and jewelry at night in a store near by; I know he had a dozen or two watches in the window usually; he asked for his pocket-book, and later called on some one to protect him; he was able to tell where he lived; I did not hear him mention Carroll; I should imagine he was struck with a "sand bag," which would leave no marks.

Charles O. Pendleton sworn, says—I am a druggist in business at No. 93 4th street, nearly opposite Mr. Collin's place; Saturday evening Dr. Perry came in to my room for medicine for Mr. C., who he said was hurt; I went over; Mr. C. was lying on a lounge in a side room groaning and saying, "Oh, dear;" I was in my store all day till 7½ P. M.; did not see any suspicious persons around that day; have been in Mr. C.'s store, I think twice; he had a watch of mine; gave it to him to repair about two the disaffection of any military leader. But the efforts of the men who proclaim their intention in this or that emergency to bring the military in conflict with the civil power of the government are none the less treasonable.

The people are fore-armed by being forewarned. The acts of the men who cannot obey the Constitution, and who are irksome under its wholesome restraints, will, sooner or later, lead them into revolt in spite of themselves. Grave dangers menace the public peace. The conflict is not between the President and Congress. It is between the radicals and the Constitution. The President has reiterated his determination to stand by the fundamental law, and those who take issue with him on this are in antagonism to the government. If they dare to carry out their schemes by force, they assume the dignity of rebels, and must be dealt with in that relation. One President has been greatly blamed for suffering rebellion to organize itself under his very nose. President Johnson will not leave himself exposed to similar censure. The first step taken in the direction pointed out now by the radicals, is the first step towards revolution. That the President will show the same boldness in meeting the radicals on the new ground they have chosen, as he has in resisting revolutionary legislation, we have no reason whatever to doubt. That he will be sustained by the same measure of public approval is beyond question. We are glad for our own part that radical mask of loyalty has been thrown off. Men may cry peace, but there can be no peace while radicalism sways the destiny of the nation. The new scheme ought to arouse a public sentiment in the North which no party will dare to brave. Meanwhile the duty of the people is plain. Let them rally in every hamlet, in every town and in every city to the support of the President and the Constitution. Outside of the latter instrument there is no safety for any of us. The path to peace, to union, and to our old time prosperity, is pointed out by Constitution. Whatever party dares to stand in the way must die, and the sooner it is en-in favor of manhood suffrage, and who is supported by such men as John Stuart Mill and Thomas Hughes. will give his voice for a pusillanimous measure like that Russell may be expected to propose?

The downfall of the present ministry is a matter of two or three months only, if the reform question is forced upon it; and then the door will be open for the admission to power of men who will aid the establishment of freer and more democratic institutions, a wide extension of the voting privilege, and a more permanent basis of representation.

THE DEATH OF A LITTLE GREAT MAN.—The immortal Phipps is no more! The ineffable pearl o privy purses has departed this life, in a halo of glory and gold stick! Phipps est mort; Vive Phipps! Who was Phipps, quotha? Why Phipps was, and is and will be—for Phipps, like the Emperor of China and Brother of the Sun, is perennial; it is toujours Phipps—the keeper of the Queen of England's purse! Mysterious man! Perpetually in the position of Tom Tidler of immortal memory, picking up gold and silver. The mighty dam which stayed the floodgates of a Queen's pin-money!

Who his successor may be we wot not; but—even although he may be a Phipps—he cannot approach the glory of his predecessor. We have seen him—this great man, in the days when Queen Victoria did not look quite so much like a very ordinary, frowsy middle-aged lady and when the beauty of the Court—beauty and chivalry they call it over there—used to visit the opera. Phipps the great, the immortal, the ineffable, lord of lords, an stick of gold sticks in waiting, used to stand behind hi sovereign lady. Red of gills, and stout of waist, glove with mathematical nicety, and excruciatingly perfumed the gallant Colonel (to quote from Jenkins) was eve ready to do the bidding of his mistress. Did the embroidered kerchief droop, or the Etruscan fan fall? A thousand pardons! the gallant Phipps was on his knees picking it up with alacrity—obliged to preserve an angeli countenance, but nevertheless having a fearful pain in th small of the back and flux of blood to the head. Had h been a cynic—which, poor man, he hadn't the brains to b —what opportunities he might have had to watch th hollowness of royalty's life. And her majesty—what her? She must be in a bad way. So lately to chang the keeper of her conscience, and now to loose the guardian of her purse!

THE FENIAN PANIC IN ENGLAND.—The Fenian panic still rages in England. Arrests st continue, and the prophetic words of Stephens, "th the enemy would strike right and left, with blind fury are being verified. Whole regiments are continual being poured into Ireland, and all day and all night the towns of the hapless country the rattle of artille—trains through the streets, are heard. In the published correspondence between the Lord Lieutenant an the Home Secretary

Dear Mr. Towne,

amateur not certified researcher

RE: Collins Research

You were absolutely right. The Collins problem was not difficult and the information was in the probate packet.

According to Murphy's law of genealogy, research problems that you think are going to be simple never are, so I suspected this might be quite a problem, but it wasn't.

First I thought that locating William's marriage record, possibly in NYC might help as NYC marriage records generally give the parents of the bride and groom. (Although I don't know if they do this that early.) But I found that the library does not have good indexes for NYC that go early enough.

I was able to locate the probate packet for Oliver Collins in Hampden Co MA. It contains a bond which says" William Collins of the city county and state of New York as principal."

no person would never accept Wm without the will that links NYC to Springf.

I think that should be the final piece of proof needed. Actually, as I looked over the material you sent, I thought to myself that she has her proof already. True it is circumstantial but it is such strong proof I would think it would be acceptable. From the material you sent:

She doesn't have to make the decision re: proof for these Societies that require much stronger proof

" When Wm Collins wife Jeannette died 23 Feb 1879 in Brooklyn her obit said Springfield MA papers please copy."

Van Vultee History says he was born in Springfield.

no author no proofs in history

Photo says he was born in Springfield.

His age at death matches well with his birth date.

He named a daughter Lucinda. 2 daus Lucinda

" Baptism of Olivers' son Wm was within the same wk or so of the calculated birth of Wm in Brooklyn."

Census records say Wm born in MA.

It seems to me there is plenty of proof. I didn't copy quite all the papers in the probate packet, but I did copy all that I felt were of any importance.

I'll be continuing on with the other projects you outlined in your letter.

Sincerely,

Alice Brower

Case No. 2729

ESTATE OF

1820

HAMPDEN COUNTY
PROBATE COURT

In the name of God Amen.

I Ariel Collins of Springfield in the County of Hampden Joiner being advanced in life, but of sound disposing mind and memory do make and ordain this my last Will and Testament as follows — my Soul I commend to God my Body to be interred in a decent manner — my Estate I dispose of in manner following (viz)

To my Son Oliver Collins I give devise and bequeath to him and his Heirs and Assigns forever, All my Lands and Real Estate, saving however the use occupation and improvement of such part or parts thereof and for such term as I have herein after given to my daughters Laura and Lois. —

To my Daughters Mary wife of Jacob Bliss Esq. — Nancy widow and Relict of Paul Bliss and Hannah wife of Jonathan Pease I give and bequeath the sum of One dollar each, to be paid them respectively within One year after my decease by my Executor. —

To Sophia wife of Capt Walter Warriner I give one of my silver Table spoons. —

To my daughters Laura Collins and Lois Collins I give and devise the use of the South half of my dwelling House, and also the use of that part of the Cellar under said House now improved by me, with all necessary passes and rights of way in and out of said House Also the use of the one half of my Barn also the use & improvement of the Southerly half of my Garden & also a right to the use of so much of my back yard as they may need for the purpose of laying Wood &c — with all necessary and convenient passways to and from [illegible] Barn and Garden — and to be and remain to said Laura and Lois for so long a term and time as they shall continue sole and unmarried.

and in case either of them should Marry such [illegible]es share thenceforth to cease and be determined and be enjoyed and improved by the other one, so long as she shall remain sole and unmarried — and I do give and bequeath to my said daughters Laura and Lois all and singular my Household moveable Goods and Furniture to be to their own use and disposal forever to be equally divided also all my Grain and provisions which may be on hand at the time of my death, & in case I have on hand at the time of my death a Cow a Shoat or Shoats Hog or Hoggs them also I do give to said Laura and Lois to be equally divided

And as to for and concerning all the rest, residue & remainder of my Estate whatsoever not herein before by me disposed of after payment of my just debts funeral charges and the several Legacies aforesaid. I do give and bequeath the same and every part thereof to my Son Oliver Collins whom I hereby appoint Executor of this my Last Will and Testament. And it being my Will and pleasure and I do hereby order and direct him, that out of and from what I have in this my Will given and bequeathed to him he pay and satisfy all my just debts funeral charges and the several Legacies in time and manner as I have before directed hereby revoking all former Wills — In Witness whereof I have hereunto set my Hand and Seal this twenty second day of April in the year of our Lord Eighteen hundred and eighteen. —

Signed Sealed published and declared by the said Ariel Collins as and for his last Will and Testament in presence of us, who have hereto subscribed our names as Witnesses at his request in his presence & in presence of each other — Edward Pynchon

KNOW all Men by these Presents, That we Oliver Collins as principal and Jacob Bliss as surety both of Springfield in the County of Hampden, and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, are holden and stand firmly bound and obliged unto JOHN HOOKER, Esq. Judge of the Probate of Wills and granting Administrations within the County of Hampden, in the sum of five hundred Dollars, to be paid unto the said JOHN HOOKER, his successors in said office, or assigns: To the true payment whereof we do bind ourselves and each of us, our, and each of our Heirs, Executors and Administrators, jointly and severally, for the whole and in the whole, firmly by these presents, Sealed with our Seals, dated the third day of October in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty

THE CONDITION of this present obligation is such, That whereas the above bounden Oliver has this day taken upon himself the office of Executor to the last will and testament of [illegible] Collins late of Springfield in the county of Hampden, deceased, and thereby the burden of paying his debts and legacies:

NOW therefore, if he the said Oliver his Heirs, Executors or Administrators, or any of them, do well and truly pay, or cause to be paid the said deceased's debts and legacies, and in all matters the same concerning, faithfully fulfil the said deceased's will, and administer his estate according thereunto, and render an account of his proceedings thereupon, when thereunto lawfully required: Then the above written obligation to be void, else to remain in full force and virtue.

1296. VI. George M., born July 15, 1796; married Esther Wickham.+

GAD STEBBINS was graduated from Harvard College in 1771, receiving the degree of A. M. He was a decided patriot, and established a large factory for making saltpetre, an ingredient used in manufacturing gunpowder for use during the Revolution. His name appears as a private in Captain Aaron Graves' Company, Colonel David Leonard's Regiment. He enlisted May 8, 1777, and was discharged June 8, 1777, in service in the Northern department. He was also a member of Captain Burt's Company, as shown in a return of men drafted from Hampshire County Militia to march to Horse Neck under command of Colonel Samuel How; but they failed to join the regiment.

He was a printer, a physician, and an apothecary. In 1796 he was associated with a Mr. Russell in the publication of the "Hampshire Herald" at Springfield, Massachusetts.

His daughter, HARRIET STEBBINS, taught school several years in the South, where she became much interested in the slavery question. The climate did not agree with her, so she returned to her New England home; but subsequently went to Washington, D. C., where she succeeded in amassing quite a fortune by her labors in the school room. She was a life member of the "Washington Colonization Society," and also of the "American Colonization Society," being deeply interested in their work of sending colored people back to Liberia.

DESCENDANTS OF ALICE^{3} BRADFORD. DIRECT ANC

[Communicated by Rev. William Allen, D.D. of Northampton.]

The oldest granddaughter of Gov. Bradford and Alice Southworth was Alice Bradford, the daughter of Maj. William Bradford by his first wife, Alice Richards. Gen. G. M. Fessenden, in his genealogy of the Bradford's, in the N. E. Historical Register for January and July 1850, gives no account of her descendants. Happening to be myself a descendant of Jackie also from Alice → Alice Bradford, I am able to supply this deficiency in part.

Alice^{3}Bradford married, March 29, 1680, Rev. William Adams, the 2d minister of Dedham, being his 2d wife; Mary Manning of Cambridge was his first. Mr. Adams, by his wife Alice, had three daughters; 1. Elizabeth, born Feb. 23, 1681; she married, first, Rev. S. Whiting of Windham, Sept. 4, 1696, when she was in her 16th year, and her four children were distinguished; first, Col. William Whiting, employed in the French war; second, Rev. John Whiting of the second church in Windham (Scotland parish); and, resigning his office, he was judge of probate and also a colonel; third, Col. Nathan Whiting; fourthly, Mary, born 1712, married Nov. 23, 1727 Rev. Thomas Clap, her father's successor at Windham, and afterwards president of Yale College; she died Aug. 9, 1736, her daughters being Mary Clap, who married Daniel Wooster of New Haven, and Temperance Clap, who married Timothy Pitkin of Farmington. X

Rev. S. Whiting died in 1725, and his widow Elizabeth married, in 1737, Rev. Samuel Niles of Braintree; she died at New Haven at her son Nathan's, in 1760. ?

Jackie's direct anc 2. The second daughter of Rev. William Adams by Alice^{3} Bradford was Alice,^{4} who married in 1701 Rev. Nathaniel Collins, the first minister of Enfield, Conn. She died Feb. 19, 1735; he died in 1756. Junior

3. The third daughter of William and Alice Adams was Abiel, born Dec. 15, 1685, after the death of her father, who died Aug. 17, 1685. About the year 1707 she married Rev. Joseph Metcalf, minister of Falmouth, a native of Dedham, born in 1682, graduated 1703, died May 24, 1723. Joseph and Abiel Metcalf had 11 children, as follows: 1. Abigail; 2. Abijah, both of whom, probably, [died] young; 3. Abiel, married James Fitch of Salisbury; 4. Hannah, married Timothy Metcalf of Mansfield or Lebanon; 5. Alice, married John Williams; 6. Mary, married John Reed or Rudd of Lebanon; 7. Elizabeth, married Rev. Jonathan Lee, the first minister of Salisbury, Conn.; 8. Delight, married Tho. Worcester; 9. Sarah, married James Fowler of E. Haddam; 10. Azubah, married Wm. Williams of Union, Maine; 11. Sybal.

Alice, the widow of Rev. William Adams, married Maj. James Fitch of Norwich, who was born in 1647 and died at Canterbury, his last residence, in 1727, aged 80 years.

Her daughter Abiel, the widow of Rev. Joseph Metcalf, married Rev. Isaac Chauncy of Hadley, who died in 1745. The time and place of her death are not known.

I now proceed to my particular object, the tracing of the descendants of one of the daughters of Mrs. Abiel Metcalf, she (as it may be remembered) being the granddaughter of Major William Bradford. As she is of the 4th generation from Gov. Bradford, her daughter Elizabeth will be marked as of the fifth.

Will of William Bradford

BIOGRAPHICAL SUMMARY:

The early years of Bradford's life are described by Cotton Mather in his book Magnalia Christi Americana first published in 1702:

Among those Devout People was our William Bradford, who was Born Anno 1588. in an obscure Village call'd Austerfield, where the People were as unacquainted with the Bible, as the Jews do seem to have been with part of it in the Days of Josiah; a most Ignorant and Licentious People, and like unto their Priest. Here, and in some other Places, he had a Comfortable Inheritance left him of his Honest Parents, who died while he was yet a Child, and cast him on the Education, first of his Grand Parents, and then of his Uncles, who devoted him, like his Ancestors, unto the Affairs of Husbandry. Soon and long Sickness kept him, as he would afterwards thankfully say, from the Vanities of Youth, and made him the fitter for what he was afterwards to undergo. When he was about a Dozen Years Old, the Reading of the Scriptures began to cause great Impressions upon him; and those Impressions were much assisted and improved, when he came to enjoy Mr. Richard Clifton's Illuminating Ministry, not far from his Abode; he was then also further befriended, by being brought into the Company and Fellowship of such as were then called Professors; though the Young Man that brought him into it, did after become a Prophane and Wicked Apostate. Nor could the Wrath of his Uncles, nor the Scoff of his Neighbours now turn'd upon him, as one of the Puritans, divert him from his Pious Inclinations.

. . . Having with a great Company of Christians Hired a Ship to Transport them for Holland, the Master perfidiously betrayed them into the Hands of those Persecutors; who Rifled and Ransack'd their Goods, and clapp'd their Persons into Prison at Boston, where they lay for a Month together. But Mr. Bradford being a Young Man of about Eighteen, was dismissed sooner than the rest, so that within a while he had Opportunity with some others to get over to Zealand, through Perils both by Land and Sea not inconsiderable; where he was not long Ashore ere a Viper seized on his Hand, that is, an Officer, who carried him Unto the Magistrates, unto whom an envious Passenger had accused him as having fled out of England. When the Magistrates understood the True Cause of his coming thither, they were well satisfied with him; and so he repaired joyfully unto his Brethren at Amsterdam, where the Difficulties to which he afterwards stooped in Learning and Serving of a Frenchman at the Working of Silks, were abundantly Compensated by the Delight wherewith he sat under the Shadow of our Lord in his purely dispensed Ordinances. At the end of Two Years, he did, being of Age to do it, convert his Estate in England into Money; but Setting up for himself, he found some of his Designs by the Providence of God frowned upon, which he judged a Correction bestowed by God upon him for certain Decays of Internal Piety, whereinto he had fallen; the Consumption of his Estate he thought came to prevent a Consumption in his Virtue. But after he had resided in Holland about half a Score Years, he was one of those who bore a part in that Hazardous and Generous Enterprize of removing into New England, with part of the English Church at Leyden, where at their first Landing, his dearest Consort accidentally falling Overboard, was drowned in the Harbour; and the rest of his Days were spent in the Services, and the Temptations, of that American Wilderness.

William Bradford came on the Mayflower with his wife Dorothy (May), leaving son John behind in Holland. Dorothy fell off the Mayflower and drowned on 7 December 1620, when it was anchored in Provincetown Harbor.

This was an accidental drowning. The story of the suicide, affair with Captain Chrostopher Jones, etc. comes from a fictional "soap opera" story published in a national women's magazine in 1869--a story published as truth by the author, based on "family stories", but which the author later admitted was an invention of her own imagination. x get * For further information on this, see Mayflower Descendant 29:97-102 , and especially 31:105.

After the death of John Carver in April 1621, Bradford was elected governor of the Plymouth Colony, and continued in that capacity nearly all his life. In 1623 he married
* Alice (Carpenter) Southworth, widow of Edward Southworth. A description of the marriage is found in a letter written by a visitor to Plymouth Colony, Emmanuel Altham, in 1623:

Upon the occasion of the Governor's marriage, since I came, Massasoit was sent for to the wedding, where came with him his wife, the queen, although he hath five wives. With him came four other kings and about six score men with their bows and arrows--where, when they came to our town, we saluted them with the shooting off of many muskets and training our men. And so all the bows and arrows was brought into the > Governor's house, and he brought the Governor three or four bucks and a turkey. And so we had very good pastime in seeing them dance, which is in such manner, with such a noise that you would wonder. . . . And now to say somewhat of the great cheer we had at the Governor's marriage. We had about twelve pasty venisons, besides others, pieces of roasted venison and other such good cheer in such quantity that I could wish you some of our share. For here we have the best grapes that ever you say--and the biggest, and divers sorts of plums and nuts which our business will not suffer us to look for.

William Bradford died in 1657, having been governor of the Plymouth Colony for almost the entire period since 1621. Cotton Mather in his Magnalia Christi Americana wrote that William Bradford: *

> . . . was a Person for Study as well as Action; and hence, notwithstanding the Difficulties through which he passed in his Youth, he attained unto a notable Skill in Languages; the Dutch Tongue was become almost as Vernacular to him as the English; the French Tongue he could also manage; the Latin and the Greek he had Mastered; but the Hebrew he most of all studied, Because, he said, he would see with his own Eyes the Ancient Oracles of God in their Native Beauty. He was also well skill'd in History, in Antiquity, and in Philosophy; and for Theology he became so versed in it, that he was an Irrefragable Disputant against the Errors, especially those of Anabaptism, which with Trouble he saw rising in his Colony; wherefore he wrote some Significant things for the Confutation of those Errors. But the Crown of all was his Holy, Prayerful, Watchful and Fruitful Walk with God, wherein he was very Exemplary. At length he fell into an Indisposition of Body, which rendred him unhealthy for a whole Winter; and as the Spring advanced, his Health yet more declined; yet he felt himself not what he counted Sick, till one Day; in the Night after which, the God of Heaven so fill'd his Mind with Ineffable Consolations, that he seemed little short of Paul, rapt up unto the Unutterable Entertainments of Paradise. The next Morning he told his Friends, That the good Spirit of God had given him a Pledge of his Happiness in another World, and the First-fruits of his Eternal Glory: And on the Day following he died, May 9, 1657 in the 68th Year of his Age. Lamented by all the Colonies of New England, as a Common Blessing and Father to them all.

William Bradford wrote Of Plymouth Plantation, chronicling the history of the Plymouth Colony, and the events that led up to their leaving England for Holland, and later to New England. William Bradford also wrote part of Mourt's Relation: A Journal of the Pilgrims at Plymouth, and he recorded some of the important letters he wrote and received in a letterbook which still partially exists. Nathaniel Morton's 1669 book, New England's Memorial also records a poem written by William Bradford on his deathbed. There are also two elegy poems written in 1657 after Bradford's death--the first elegy poem is anonymous, and the second elegy poem was written by Josias Winslow. *

THE WHITING ARMS.

3514 MAJOR WILLIAM WHITING was an original proprietor of Hartford; his home-lot in 1639 was on the east side of the street now Governor St. In 1633 "the Bristol men had sold their interest in Piscataqua to the Lords Say and Brooke, George Wyllys, and William Whiting, who continued Thomas Wiggin their agent." Mr. Whiting retained his interest in Piscataqua until his death, and was one of the most efficient promoters of the trade and commerce of Hartford. He was also engaged in a patent for lands at Swampscott with Lords Say and Brook. He was one of the Committee who for the first time sat with the Court of Magistrates in 1637; freeman, Feb., 1640; Treasurer of the Colony from 1641 until 1647; chosen magistrate 1642, and continued in office until his death in 1647. In 1638 he was allowed to trade with the Indians; and he was appointed with Major Mason and others to erect fortifications in 1642, and the same year he was appointed with Mason to collect tribute of the Indians on Long Island and on the Main. He was a merchant of wealth, and had dealings with Virginia and Piscataqua; had a trading-house at the Delaware River, and also at Westfield. He begins his will, dated March 20, 1643, by stating that he intends "a voyage presently unto sea;"[2] the last addition to his will was made July 24, 1647, and he probably d. soon after, leaving widow Susanna, who m. in 1650 Samuel Fitch, of Hartford, and (3), Alexander Bryan, of Milford; she d. at Middletown, July 8, 1673. Amount of Whiting's inv. £2854. — Ch.: i. William, went to England, was a merchant in London, and d. there in 1699. In 1686 the Assembly of Connecticut appointed him their "agent to present their petition (in reference to the Charter) to the King." ii. John, b. 1635; grad. Harvard Coll., 1653; m. about 1654, Sybil, dau. of Deacon Edward Collins, of Cambridge, joined the church in Cambridge, and lived there, and in Salem, where he rendered ministerial assistance to Rev. Edward Norris. In 1660 he removed to Hartford, and was ordained pastor of the First Church, as colleague with Rev. Samuel Stone; after Stone's death, in 1664, Rev. Joseph Haynes was settled as his colleague, and after many controversies Whiting withdrew with his followers, ✱ EDWARD AND JOHN COLLINS AND THEIR DESCENDANTS.

Compiled by Hon. RALPH D. SMYTH, and communicated by Dr. BERNARD C. STEINER.

1. EDWARD[1] COLLINS appears first at Cambridge, Mass., in 1638, where he was deacon of the first church, and was made freeman May 13, 1640. From 1654 to 1670, with the exception of the year 1661, he was a representative in the General Court. He lived many years on the plantation of Gov. Craddock at Medford, and at last purchased it, selling off considerable portions of it.

He and his brother John[1] were all their lives active men. Cotton Mather, in the Magnalia, speaks of Edward[1] as the "good old man, the deacon of the church at Cambridge, who is now gone to heaven; but before he went thither, had the satisfaction to see several most worthy sons become very famous persons in their generation." He died in Charlestown, Mass., Apr. 9, 1689, aged 86 years. The place from which they emigrated in England has not been ascertained.

Edward[1] Collins brought with him his wife Martha and several children.

Children:

i. DANIEL,[2] b. 1629, in England; merchant; resided in Königsberg, Prussia.
2. ii, JOHN, b. 1633, in England; d. Dec. 3, 1687.
3. iii. SAMUEL, b. 1636, in England; d. in Middletown, Conn., Jan. 10, 1696.
iv. SIBYL, b. 1638; m. (1) in 1654, Rev. John Whiting, Harvard College 1653, minister at Salem, Mass., and Hartford, Conn., who d. at Hartford, Sept. 8, 1689; m. (2) Rev. John Russell of Hadley, Mass., who d. Dec. 10, 1692, aged 65.

v. MARTHA, b. Sept., 1639, in Cambridge; m. Rev. Joshua Moody, Harvard College 1653, minister at Portsmouth, N. H., who d. at Boston, while on a visit, July 4, 1697.
4. vi. NATHANIEL, b. Mch. 7, 1642, in Cambridge; d. at Middletown, Dec. 28, 1684.
vii. ABIGAIL, b. Sept. 20, 1644, in Cambridge; m. in 1663, John, son of Capt. Thomas Willet, who d. Feb. 2, 1664.
viii. EDWARD, bapt. June, 1646, in Cambridge.

2. JOHN[2] COLLINS (Dea. Edward[1]), born in England in 1633, Harvard College 1649, became a minister, returned to England in the time of the Civil War, and "became a celebrated preacher in London having a sweet voice and a most affectionate manner in the pulpit." He was chaplain to Gen. Monk, afterwards Duke of Albemarle, when he marched out of Scotland into England, but accepted no place under the Act of Uniformity. He succeeded Rev. William Mallory as pastor of a large independent congregation at Pinner's Hall, London.

No pastor, says his epitaph by Cotton Mather in the Magnalia, however great his excellences, ever called forth from the living church more veneration in life or deeper grief for his death. He died in London, Dec. 3, 1687.

He was married, and had a son John,[3] born in London about 1673, who succeeded Nathaniel Mather as minister in Lime Street, London. In 1702, John[3] Collins, Jr., was engaged at the ordination of the celebrated Dr. Isaac Watts in Mark Lane. He died suddenly, Mar. 19, 1714, when he was little more than 40 years of age.

3. SAMUEL[2] COLLINS (Dea. Edward[1]) married Mary MARVIN, who was admitted to full communion at Cambridge, May 31, 1664, where he probably resided until 1664, when he removed to Saybrook, and shortly afterwards to Middletown, where he resided most of his life. He went to Scotland in 1658, while his brother John was at Edinburgh, but came back soon, and was casually at Cambridge, 1675, and Charlestown, 1678, otherwise he resided mostly at Middletown. He had lands recorded at Middletown, Feb. 28, 1667; and on Mch. 22, 1670, had a list of £58. He was Representative in 1672. His wife Mary died May 5, 1713/14.

4. REV. NATHANIEL[2] COLLINS (Dea. Edward[1]), born in Cambridge, Mch. 7, 1642, Harvard College 1660, was a minister, and was ordained pastor of the church at Middletown, Nov. 4, 1668. He had lands recorded to him at Middletown, Jan. 24, 1664. He is one of Cotton Mather's worthies, of whom the Magnalia says: "There were more wounds given [by his death] to the whole colony of Connecticut in our New England, than the body of Cæsar did receive, ✱ when he fell wounded in the senate-house."

He married, Aug. 3, 1664, Mary, daughter of William Whiting, who died Oct. 25, 1709. He died Dec. 28, 1684.

1. John[1] Collins, Sr., of Boston, brother of Dea. Edward,[1] probably came to this country a few years earlier than his brother. He was admitted to the church at Boston, Apr. 4, 1646, and took the oath as freeman, May 6, 1646. He married Susannah ———. He was a shoemaker and tanner, and a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. In 1640 he had a grant of land at Braintree, for three heads. He died Mch. 29, 1670.

2. John[2] Collins, Jr. (John[1]), may have been born in England and have come to New England with his parents. He learned his father's trade of shoemaking and tanning. In 1663 he went to Middletown, about the time his cousins Samuel and Rev. Nathaniel went there. Soon after, he went with Samuel to Saybrook. He signed the New Plantation Covenant of Branford, but he did not remain long there, for in Dec., 1669, he was at Guilford. In 1682 he was appointed to teach the Grammar School for a quarter of the year, on trial, and continued some years after.

New-Hampshire, was attacked in much the same manner. Walton had contention with a woman about a tract of land, and she was supposed to have done the mischief but by witchcraft.

About the same time another house was infested at Salmon falls[16] in New-Hampshire. And, in 1684, one Philip Smith,[17] a justice of the court, and representative of the town of Hadley, on Connecticut River, an hypochondriac person, supposed himself to be under an evil-hand; and suspected a woman, one of his neighbors; and, continuing in that state until he died, he was generally supposed to be bewitched to death.

In 1685, a large and circumstantial account of all or most of these instances was published,[18] and anybody who doubted the truth of them would have been pronounced a Sadducee.

In 1688[19] begun a more alarming instance than any which preceded it. Four of the children of John Goodwin, a grave man and good liver at the north part of Boston, were generally believed to be bewitched. I have often heard those who were then upon the stage speak of the great consternation it occasioned. The children were all remarkable for an ingenuity of temper, had been religiously educated, and were supposed to be incapable of imposture or fraud. The eldest was a girl about thirteen years of age, it is said, it may be something more. She had charged a laundress with taking away some of the family linen. The mother of the laundress was one of the wild Irish, and gave the girl very bad language; after which she fell into a sort of fits, which were said to have something diabolical in them. One of her sisters and two of her brothers, whose ages were not transmitted,[20] soon followed her example, and they are said to have been tormented in the same parts of their bodies at the same time, though kept at a distance so as not to know one another's complaints. One thing was remarkable, and ought to have been taken more notice of, that all their complaints were in the day time, and that they slept comfortably all night. They were sometimes deaf, then dumb, then blind, and sometimes all these together. Their tongues would be drawn down their throats, then pulled out upon their chins. Brewster's Rambles about Portsmouth, 2d series, 1869, has a chapter on the subject (pp. 343–351), with Mr. Alden's statement; but none of these writers seem to be aware that Richard Chamberlayne was the author of Lithobolia. Since writing the above I find the tract under the name of Richard Chamberlain in British Museum Catalogue, 1814, and the title was so copied into Watt and Lowndes. P.

[18] Increase Mather's Remarkable Providences is the work here alluded to; but the date should have been 1684 and not 1685. The book was issued in the Spring of 1684. Nathaniel Mather, in a letter to the author, dated Dec. 31, 1684, acknowledges receiving a copy on which "was written in your hand 7 ber 16." (Mather Papers, p. 58.) John Bishop acknowledges the receipt of a copy, in a letter dated June 10, 1684. (Ibid. p. 312.) This erroneous date, and a typographical error in the Magnalia, vol. ii. p. 473, have led some writers to suppose that Cotton Mather wrote his first book on witchcraft in 1685. He was then twenty-two years of age. Before 1683 he published no works except Elegy on Rev. Nath. Collins, 1685, and The Boston Ephemeris, an Almanac for 1683, neither of which are in the printed list of his works. His first writing on witchcraft was issued in 1689. P.

some time went to St. Louis, Missouri, where he was employed in the United States arsenal. In that city he formed the acquaintance of Miss Johanna McKnight, who was a native of Ireland. They were married in LaSalle, began their domestic life here, and their happy home was blessed with eight children, namely: A. C.; Frank (who is deceased); Mary; Eliza; Margaret; Agnes; Josephine; and Emily. The father died in 1883, at the age of fifty-six years, at his home in Ottawa, where he had been living for five years previously. His widow returned to LaSalle, where the greater part of her married life had been spent and where she is still a resident.

With the exception of five years spent in Ottawa with the rest of the family, Alexander C. Finkler has always dwelt in LaSalle, and received his education in its public schools. He was a youth of fourteen when his father died, and he at once took up the more serious realities of life. His father had been for years engaged in the manufacture of soda-water, and with energy and wisdom far beyond what could be expected of such a child, young Alexander took up the reins of the business and successfully carried on the undertaking for eleven years, finally selling out in 1894. In the meantime he pursued a course of study in the Dixon (Illinois) Business College, in order more fully to equip himself for his commercial career.

For several years Mr. Finkler has been active in the Democratic party, and in 1893 he was honored by election to the office of city clerk of LaSalle. Two years later he was re-elected, and again in 1897 and 1899, now serving his fourth term in this capacity. In 1898 he was his party's candidate for the more responsible position of county clerk, and, with the rest of the nominees on that ticket, was defeated at election.

In 1895 Mr. Finkler married Miss Nellie Lehan of LaSalle, and one child blesses their happy home, namely, Alexander. In his social relations Mr. Finkler belongs to the Knights of Pythias, the Modern Woodmen of America, the Independent Order of Foresters, and the Turn Verein. Religiously he and his wife are identified with the Catholic church.

WILLIAM B. CHAPMAN.

William Barber Chapman, a retired business man and one of the most substantial and respected citizens of LaSalle, Illinois, was born in Petersburg, New York, February 25, 1828. He was one of seven children born to Moses and Lucinda (Collins) Chapman, namely: Moses, of Hutchinson, Kansas; Henry, a resident of Pasadena, California; Wealthy, the widow of Isaac DeVoe, of Seattle, Washington; William B., our subject; Lucinda Chapman, of Forest, Illinois; Mary, widow of J. P. Knight, also of Forest; and Nettie, the wife of Henry Sloan, of Sidney, Washington. Both parents were natives of Springfield, Massachusetts, where they were married. The father learned the trade of blacksmith and carriage making, which he followed. They lived for a time in Orleans, New York, and from that state came to Illinois by horses and wagon, reaching Putnam county, this state, on November 2, 1843. He purchased a farm near Hennepin, which was cultivated by his sons, and upon which he lived until his forty-ninth year, at which time his death occurred. His wife reached the advanced age of seventy-one years. They were of the Baptist faith. He was a prominent man and held the office of justice of the peace in Orleans and was also county commissioner for many years. His father, Moses Chapman, of English origin, was also a blacksmith and reached an extreme old age, living all his life in Massachusetts. He had a small number of children. Henry Collins, the maternal grandfather of our subject, was a military man and connected with the armory at Springfield, Massachusetts. He had a few children and died in his native state when past his ninetieth year.

William B. Chapman was reared on a farm, attending the common schools in the east, and then entered the academy at Granville, Illinois. He remained at home until 1853 and then came to LaSalle and entered the livery business, which he conducted for sixteen years. He then went to Forest, Livingston county, purchased a farm of one hundred and sixty acres, placed it in good cultivation, and remained on it for seventeen years, when he returned to this city and took charge of the land office for the Union Pacific Railroad for eight or ten years. Since that time he has lived a life of retirement from business. He is a stalwart Republican and served under Eli Watterman four years as deputy sheriff of LaSalle county. He was married on December 2, 1857, to Miss Martha Foster, by whom he had four children, all of whom died in childhood. Mr. and Mrs. Chapman are liberal contributors toward the support of the Congregational church, of which organization Mrs. Chapman is a member. Mrs. Chapman is a lady of culture and refinement, having received the advantages of a superior education. She took a preparatory course at Granville Academy and then entered the Albion College, at Albion, Michigan, at which she graduated in the class of 1855. She was the youngest but one in a class of eleven. Her studies having included a business course, she took charge of her father's banking business and acted as his bookkeeper for several years after returning from school.

missible. Benjamin G. Foster was born in Barnard, Windsor county, Vermont, where he grew to adult years and married Charlotte M. Brown, a native of the village of Swanton, that state. He was a carpenter and contractor, and in 1836 came to Peru, LaSalle county, leaving his family in the east in the care of his wife, until a more convenient mode of transportation could be provided for them, and it was not until the fall of 1847 that he saw his way to establishing them in this county. With true sturdiness of purpose, he at once began work at his trade and soon found steady employment. He erected nearly all the large, heavy buildings put up at that time, such as warehouses, elevators, stores, etc. He constructed the first coal shaft tower in LaSalle, afterward destroyed by fire, and built the first wagon bridge across the Illinois river at LaSalle. He employed a large force of men and made considerable money. He owned four properties on Fifth, one on Wright and one on Union street. The residence now occupied by our subject was owned by Mr. Foster. He was identified with the Whigs, and latterly with the Republicans, but was too much occupied with his trade to allow his name to be used as a candidate for office. The only exception to this rule was when he was elected school director. He was a great friend to education and was a member of the first school board in LaSalle. He was a member of the Congregational church. Mrs. Foster, although a Baptist in faith, was not identified with any church. She was of English descent and died in her fifty-seventh year, December 4, 1876. Mr. Foster survived her until September 1, 1882, when he had reached his seventy-first year of life, joining her in the "city beautiful." An uncle of his, Colonel Joseph Foster, was a well known soldier in the war of the Revolution.

GEORGE M. PINNELL, M. D.

Dr. George M. Pinnell, of LaSalle, is a physician of extensive experience and general information, and in his chosen specialty has met with unqualified success. He has traveled in all parts of this country and in Australia, has met many distinguished people, particularly those of his own profession, and is a most interesting speaker and converser.

Born in Buchanan, Upshur county, West Virginia, February 16, 1840, the Doctor is a son of Dr. David S. and Catherine E. (Wolffenborger) Pinnell, both of whom were natives of the Old Dominion, representing respected Virginia families. Dr. David S. Pinnell, who was a well-to-do planter and slaveholder, was actively engaged in the practice of his profession for the exceptionally long period of fifty-four years. Four of his sons were prominent in the same calling, namely: Dr. P. F. Pinnell, of
